My dear Mr. Herrick,

I was somewhat disheartened to hear of your illness on the train yesterday. But now that I have seen my surgeon, I am heartened and I am delighted to hear of your progress.

Sage is not really good for that kind of work. Sarge seems capable but superficial. That he had been out of town for two weeks and barely left everything to Sage.

Sage assured me as an Sage / ancient laurel editor. I should have my counsel. We would have kept our terms, but I had no choice but to accept the facts. I had written some five years of this.

I laughed and told him that he was a very hard work and had been only today, and I wanted that much longer to complete it.

He did not have as much of

at 7:30 and then could not sell them. If I had given any chance to ask a second hearing he could pretty well get my book sold. He had bought two of architecture and people.

Holding churches where people have time to build churches, they seldom have time to read or think. The time in which a book is where people are.

He had no idea of publishing a book on architecture for less than $5.00. For such small numbers, really we are well off to have a fair chance at intelligent criticism.

I don't think we could get it there. However I left them feeling they would like to have when it was ready.

The holiday business is a nuisance.

Read it in Boston - but Amstel called as soon as finished the hotel and read the secretary came for the manuscript and instruction. I am asking him for cold critical opinion - then who shall be had - his recommendation of publishers - until a view to a book priced 25c or less - and Wrote you from any excess expense.

I have the feeling that if I had not had an illusionary idea of Scullin's and had never supposed them as compared with Macmillan, you probably would have found them ready to trust as men as I was them with the writing of it again.

I come up on train, with Qu. Smith of K.C.I., his dress, and his wife - They are planning for 1,722,000 and if_macmillan failing, to be back to P. F. C.
by part of medicene in and
just of knowing few. over a Journey of three years. They seemed more of these than in the had visited Washington before, and came back with medical details.

I am immensely grateful to you and am very Scullin's account will go ahead - but I fear as long as Smith is there, they will be far behind in architectural items - and Macmillan offers constantly from foreign furnaces so I would prefer action - even the less exclusive.
