

Rice Working Papers in Linguistics

Volume 1, February 2009

Editorial board:

Linda A. Lanz, editor-in-chief
Amy Franklin, faculty advisor
Elizabeth Gentry Brunner
Jennifer Hoecker
Michelle Morrison
Cassandra Pace

For more information about RWPL, including submission details for future volumes, please visit our website at <http://www.ruf.rice.edu/~rls/>.

Table of Contents

Complexity

Papers from the 11th and 12th Rice Biennial Symposia on Language (symposia and poster sessions).

- Defining complexity: Historical reconstruction and Nyulnyulan subordination
Claire Bowern 1–17
- Here’s a structure that’s not so simple: Revisiting the acquisition of relative clauses
Cecily Jill Duffield 18–41
- Applicative constructions and suppletive verbs in Hiaki
Heidi Harley, Mercedes Tubino Blanco, and Jason Haugen 42–51
- The typology of motion verbs in Northern Vietnamese
Cassandra Pace 52–64
- Do psychological constructions in Persian involve complex predicates?
Anousha Sedighi 65–78
- The syntax of hybrid verb/affix lexemes and clause fusion in Hiaki (Yaqui)
Mercedes Tubino Blanco, Heidi Harley, and Jason Haugen 79–91

Discourse

- Contrastive rhetoric of English and Persian written texts: Metadiscourse in applied linguistics research articles
Esmail Faghih and Sepideh Rahimpour 92–107
- Scoring a hat trick: Nation, football, and critical discourse analysis
Mariza Georgalou 108–141
- Reported speech and thought in Kavalan
Haowen Jiang 142–150

Morphosyntax

- Narrative and past habitual sequences in Hausa
Mahamane L. Abdoulaye 151–167
- Diachrony of complex predicates in Japanese
Linda A. Lanz 168–196
- Negation in Metta
Elena Mihas 197–222

Phonology

- Homorganic NC sequences in Kibena: Pre-nasalized consonants, consonant clusters, or something else?
Michelle Morrison 223–241

Linguistic theory

- Cognition, categorization and language: Cognitive Grammar meets Vantage Theory
Adam Glaz 242–259
- Prototypes and hyperspeech: Where are they in the grammar?
Riitta Välimaa-Blum 260–275