Sweetheart since it will be impossible for me I have a date with you tonight I will do the next best thing and that I course is write you.

Well I've had a pretty good day although I feel awful lonesome especially now I don't feel right not having a date with you on Sunday night.

Darling if anybody ever talk you that Oklahoma is hot they are mistaken that New Orleans is the hottest place next to where they don’t wear snow shoes in winter.

This morning after I had got cleaned up and I was almost black all over
from riding on the train.

I went and ate breakfast
and then started walking around town to see what was what. Well I saw a picture show advertising Shoulder Aches and as you had told me so much about that I decided that when it opened I would go and see it. In the meantime, I took a car ride and
and wasn’t expecting to see
I'm going to Dallas any minute now. I know that would be a very funny and a very unusual sight but I was speaking literally.

Darling mine dear, I wish you could hear the pretty music they are playing in here just now. The splendid violin solo and if they don't change the tune they will have me over the next train back for home, because it won't take much to make me awful homesick.

Then you know before you get into N. C. you have to be ferried across the river, well that was something new to me because I've had three trains on the boat and the ferry was also run by steam if I remember correctly the last ferry I was on carried one horse and was run via man and woman power. My old miss is certainly big here and you see oodles of boats on it. After I came back from my car ride I went in to see the show I was telling you about and enjoyed it real meel especially the awkward squad. It was then after twelve so I went to eat my hash and then came back to the hotel to clean up. I had already just about melted away by after I had cooled off. I somewhat. I decided to go to the ball game, you know. The Southern League is supposed to be a higher league than the Texas League but believe me I sure couldn't see it that way this afternoon. It was rotten. I started to tell them to come up to Garlave Park and see a good ball game but I didn't want to make them feel any worse than they were already feeling so I didn't say anything. They played a double header N.C. won one and lost one. After the games I came on back to town and went down to the docks to watch the ships for a while and then walked back up town to get my letters. After having had the above mentioned articles I came back to the hotel and wrote to you.
I am having the best time of my whole stay right now. I want to tell you a joke. Ruth told me here. It is— I just hate them. Gullion and I am glad. Do, because if I liked it, I would be eating it all the time and I just hate that stuff. (L.O.A.T.-E.J.)

Sweetheart, when you write me you may as well address it care Milly Hotel, Houston. Because by the time you get this letter, and I get a reply, it will be gone.
I'm figuring on leaving New Orleans on Tuesday night and I don't imagine you will find them have my address. I don't guess you will get this till Tuesday evening or Wednesday morning.

Another Irishman was going to meet each other at a certain place and they were figuring out a way they could tell whether one or the other was there. So finally, Pat, one of the two, got a bright idea, and he didn't get in a hurry.
you lose the point of this joke if you read it too fast, suppose we begin again just for fun, you just go back and read it over. Yes isn't it hot - oh yes the rest of the joke - pat suggests that if he got there first he would make a chalk mark on the door and if you men got there first he would rub it off. Don't you think that it is a good joke, sure I knew you would. Tomorrow I am going out to the old Spanish fort and take Oh well I won't try to spell it, but it doesn't sound like croix de guerre.

Well sweetheart mine, I hope you are having a good time, and when you are, get plenty sleep, eat lots of meat, an abundance so you'll get fat.

How's good night my darling, with lots lots of love.
