Wednesday

My dear little sweetheart, I sure have been lonesome for you today, I have been awfully busy but you have been on my mind all the time and that is because I love you dear.

Just think when you get this letter there will be only one day left in January, and then we begin on another month wouldn't you just like to tear about these months if instead of just one, but I guess while we are wishing we might as well wish that the last exam was over and you and I were together once more. My when that does happen I'm afraid there won't be much left of poor me.
I sure am anxious to find out what you thought about those pictures. Indeed you to tell me exactly what you think, just remember honey you can't hurt my feelings any about saying they are awful because I know they are. Simply can't get over the way they looked.

I sure came near exploding in hot this afternoon. you knew it was the day for freshmen and they did have a rather hard exercise, but they have just about gotten to the point where they don't try to do any worse but simply leave it all for one of us to do. So when they started that this afternoon, simply blew up. I got awful mad but for once and about the first time I kept my temper down and simply didn't say a word for a while and then I would tell them to go and do their own work. You knew usually I simply say whatever pops into my mind first and then generally I am sorry about it later.

Have Joe or his wife half returned yet? I agree with you I had rather come to Houston too dear. I have had some awful good times here especially while you were here. Oh darling I did have such a good time then.
You never would guess what time it is. I started writing at 6:15 and then went to supper and we have been so busy entertaining company ever since that I haven't been able to get back to it. It is now 12:20 and all is well. But I wouldn't feel natural if I were to go to bed before 11:30 at the earliest.

This morning in chemistry he was lecturing on stereo-isomerism—don't ask me what it is because I don't know, anyway he was trying to describe something in the three planes of space and poor me couldn't even understand it in one plane. I have often thought that there were some things in Biology which needed a big p disastrously after them, but there in chemistry are just as bad. I think Turell held a little class this summer in Biology and have you for my only pupil, I think that would be nice don’t you?

I am going to find out tomorrow whether or not I am going to have an exam Saturday or not. I hope I can’t because rather a game on Friday night you couldn’t study enough.
if you don't go to the game. But it would be just like him to give an exam just before after something like that.

Sure do think the writing on that envelope looks like mine, at first I thought it looked a whole lot like Gibbon's and I wondered what he was doing writing Mr. Collee a letter.

Honey Mr. Morgan certainly does want you to come work for him doesn't he? 28 he married and 28 is he living with his wife? You see honey you never need be afraid if a good place to work, they all want you.
Sweetheart, I have got lots of farm work to do. Don't you want to come help me? You see I haven't done much of all this year and it has been stacking up on me now. I've got to do it, but goodness knows when. I also need my rest and it needs considerable patching. You see what I mean in need. I don't you dear—you. I know that sounds like I want you just so I will have someone to do my chores, but you know what I mean, don't you honey?

How is Edward getting along now? You know... that's the big trouble with the flu, you can't get rid of the fever. I threw mine would be normal sometimes for a couple of days and then the damn stuff would go up to 103 and 104 again. Oh Jesus, I get so mad when it did that.

Sweetheart, I sure thought that I could last a little while without feeling so awful lonesome, but honey I too fell worse than I ever have. We just aren't supposed to be apart I guess. How is your cold dean? Surely hope you are alright and please take care of yourself.

I love you with all my love.
