

Houston, Texas
March 10, 1921
2 cent

Mrs. O.H. Eisenlohr
1100 E. 8th street
Dallas Texas
Sta A.

Thursday

My dearest Sweetheart,

I am finally located now and have a real nice room. The one I had last night was only temporary, and didn't have a bath in it.

I surely have been thinking about you to-day and wondering how you are feeling and what you have been doing. Have you been working hard darling? You be sure and tell me everything when you write.

It this bird down here passes this term if surely will surprise me, because he doesn't know a thing about chemistry, I don't believe he ever studies it during the term, he might think that he is studying but I have my doubts. I wrote them a letter yesterday and told them just what I thought, I surely do get disgusted with a person like he is, I studied chemistry with him this morning and all afternoon, and what he knows can be written on a very small piece of paper and have lots of room left over.

I studied a little bit myself to-day at noon, with another boy out at school, if I keep it up during the next week I will almost know my first degree before I come back, I sure am going to try to learn it, because then it will be so much easier for me when I come back.

I surely will be glad when next week is over and I am on my way back to you darling. This week up until to-day went by pretty fast but to-day has seemed awful long and now tomorrow is only Friday, a full week yet before I come back to my darling little wife.

Have the children sat in the jam anymore honey?

I am going to go over and mail this so you will get it in the morning, at least you ought to. Tell me if you don't.

I told Boo I would phone him tonight but I don't feel like going anywhere with them. It turned a little cool down here yesterday, and I bet you better be wearing something heavier than your spring suit young lady.

I sure will be on your coattail if you aren't.

You know every time I come down here I get just a little happier that I am not going to school again this year but have a sweet little wife instead. It sure is a whole lot nicer honey, don't you think so?

Sweetheart I will write you again tomorrow. I am going to mail this now so it will go off tonight yet.

I love you sweetheart with all my love,

Otto.

P.S. I'm saving them all until I get home. 10% Interest per day.