Humanities Plan No Innovations; Faculty Additions Are Disclosed

By HUGH RICE KELLY

Though plans are not fully complete in several departments, in general no major changes will be made in Humanities departments for next year.

In the Department of History and Political Science, a number of new faculty members will be added. Dr. Gerald M. Straka, Ph.D. from Wisconsin, presently an assistant professor of History at Michigan State, will be an Assistant Professor here. He is a former Wilson and Fulbright scholar, and spent some years at the University of London. He will teach courses in British History.

CHARLES E. NEU will come here as a Lecturer in History. He is a Harvard A.M. and Ph.D., a PBK, and held several major fellowships as a graduate student. He will offer courses in American Diplomatic History.

A new Assistant Professor in Political Science, Dr. Gilbert Cuthbertson, will join the faculty next year. A graduate of the University of Kansas and Harvard, he will teach Political Science 210 and a new course in basic political theory.

Dean W. H. Masterson and several others will be on leave next year but plans in this respect are not yet final.

In the Department of Economics and Business Administration, Professor J. H. Auten and G. V. Rimlinger will be on leave next year, Auten to the Treasury Department and Rimlinger to his studies under a Ford Foundation grant.

ABDEL R. A. MEGUID, who studied at the Universities of Alexandria, Birmingham, Oxford and Texas, will join next year's faculty as an Assistant Professor. A former member of the National Planning Commission of Egypt, he will teach the course in Comparative Economic Systems, as well as others in the department.

Richard A. Jenner, B.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Colorado, will also be an Assistant Professor of Economics. Several other new members will be added to the department before September.

In the Sociology and Anthropology Department, Dr. Frank A. Hole will be on leave to conduct research in southwest Iran. Dr. Richard R. Randolph, whose major interest is in cultural anthropology, will join the staff next year. He comes from the University of California at Berkeley, where he won the only "summa" in anthropology ever given at that school.

DR. MARY ELLEN Goodman will replace departing Hugh Duncan in the sociology division. She is primarily interested in the transfer of culture, especially as applied to children. She has been active in work for the national government, serving on the White House council on Children and Youth, and has served the government as a technical adviser in

Psychology will be instituted as a separate department next year. Dr. Bert Kaplan, a Harvard Ph. D. presently at the University of Kansas, will join the new department as Professor of Psychology and head of the Department.

In the Philosophy and Education department, Charles W. Kegley will be the visiting professor of Religion. Dr. Kegley, a member of a great number of honorary and intellectual organizations, a productive author on religious and philosophical topics, will teach Philosophy 410 (Philosophy of Religion) and a graduate seminar.

SEVERAL NEW faculty members will join the English Department. Edward O. Doughtie, a Harvard Ph.D. and a Duke PBK, will be an Assistant Professor of English. His special field is the poetry of the Renaissance as well as its music. He will teach a course in sixteenth century literature, as well as some others. More faculty members definitely will be added, but no final word has yet been received on them.

Plans for the departments of Foreign Languages are not fully complete.
