

Campus Males Can Choose 'Beauties'

By MIKE REYNOLDS

What is the essence of beauty? I am not sure that a universal definition is possible. I do believe that beauty is something more than pleasing physical features. Beauty should be based upon something deeper. Call it soul, animas, psyche, or what you will. Each man must decide upon his individual criteria.

A Different Manner

The 1959 Campanile Beauties will be selected in a somewhat different manner than in years past. On November 4 there will be an all school election. At each election poll there will be a list of Rice girls by classes.

Must Have 10

Each male student will select ten girls from his class. Each must select ten or his vote will not be counted. The lists are as complete as the records of the Adviser to Women. If a name has been left off the list the name may be written in.

By Male Students

On this basis ten girls will be selected from each class for the final judging. Heretofore the top ten were selected by some outside personality. This year the selection will be by a panel of Rice male students and will be open to the student body. This will take place some time after the semester tests.

Not Just Features

The judging will not be on the basis of facial features alone. Also any girl who has been a beauty in the past Campaniles is eligible this year. This system will not please every one, but it should give a more representative picture of the average Rice males conception of beauty.
