

Band To Introduce Student's Melody

"Sing to Rice," a new song for the University, will be officially introduced during half-time entertainment this Saturday at the Rice-Texas Tech game by the Rice Band.

With words and music by Frederick Specht, a physics graduate student from San Antonio, the song will be added to the Rice collection, which includes "Rice's Honor," "Fight for Rice," "The Old Gray Bonnet," and "The Rice Hymn."

Specht, who has written the music for the Senior Follies for the past two years, wrote the song this summer. The words are as follows:

"Sing to the cloistered halls
that we've known through the years;

Sing to the ivy walls with our
joys and our fears;

Sing, sing, to Rice again, with each voice loud and strong—

Sing to our college days that too soon pass along.

Sing to the friends we know
who will all go their way;

Sing to these golden years as we sing to Rice today."
