Symposium Congregates Today
On 'Role Of Educated Woman'

By DEBBY ROMOTSKY

An impressive group of women of local and national renown are now congregated on the Rice campus as part of the Jones College Symposium on "The Role of the Educated Woman," which will hold its opening tonight at 8 pm in the Grand Hall of the Memorial Center.

SENATOR Maurine Neuberger, Dr. Katharine McBride, and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby head the list of distinguished participants.

The Symposium, part of ceremonies commemorating Rice's fiftieth anniversary, will open with speeches by Oregon's Senator Neuberger, a member of the President's Commission on the Status of Women, who will examine "The Status of Women;" and by Mrs. Hobby, president and editor of the Houston Post, and a Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare during the Eisenhower administration.

TOMORROW morning's session will be highlighted by a panel discussion on "Women in Civic and Professional Life." Participants will include Dr. Dorothy Wyvell, Midland pediatrician, and Mrs. Corrine S. Tsanoff, past president of the National Federation of Settlements and Neighborhood Centers.

Others to examine various aspects of professional life will be Nina Vance, director of Houston's Alley Theatre; Mary Elizabeth Johnston, an editor of Fortune Magazine; and Mrs. John T. Jones, Jr., a member of the Board of Regents of Texas Women's University. Dr. Alma Louise Lowe, Rice Advisor to Women, will serve as moderator.

"WOMAN'S Multiple Role" will be discussed tomorrow afternoon by a panel to be moderated by Rice professor Dr. Katharine Fisher Drew. Mary Ellen Goodman, professor of anthropology at the University of Houston, and Carolyn Wood Sheriff, social psychologists from the University of Oklahoma will be panelists, along with the lone male guest, Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, director of the Orthogenic School at the University of Chicago.

The future of the educated woman will be under consideration in tomorrow night's closing session, as Dr. McBride, president of Bryn Mawr College, discusses "For College Women: Continuity or Re-entry?"

DR. C. M. CLASS, master of Jones College, was the director of the symposium, and was aided by a student committee which in-

A dinner tomorrow night at Cohen House highlights the schedule of additional activities associated with the Symposium. Other events include a dinner tonight and luncheon tomorrow in the Jones Commons, as well as today’s reception and tea to welcome the participants to the College. All activities except the dinner are open to the public.
