

Strikers will act to help strikers' cause at U of H

A theatre company formed of strikers from the California vineyards, "El Teatro Campesino", will perform Sunday night at the University of Houston.

Reminiscent of the early days of the labor movement when groups of union men would present playlets concerning the struggle for bargaining rights, the Teatro has traveled around the Southwest for about two years, presenting plays in Spanish and in English for the benefit of the migrant farmworkers.

Curtain time for the performance, which will include playlets and musical numbers, will be 7:30 pm in the Houston Room of U of H's new University Center. Tickets will be on sale tomorrow in the RMC.
