

Dorsey Backs Out On Homecoming

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra starring Warren Covington will not appear at the Rice Homecoming dance as originally scheduled.

The band has been set instead for a lengthy featured engagement at the Roosevelt Grill in New York City commencing on October 31. The managing agency in charge of their appearance sent regrets and promised to play a date here in the spring of 1961, "at reduced terms if necessary."

Instead, Ted Weems and his orchestra will provide the music, with floor show featuring Somethin' Smith and the Redheads, one of the nation's top night club acts.
