

'58 Follies Cast Revealed At Last

The Senior Follies is arriving. At the present time it has a cast, a plot, a script, fifteen original (spicy) songs, various barbs, spoofs and unsubtle humor.

The plot, which is being unveiled for publication in weekly installments, is modeled on the lines of the epic Rice television productions. Its two acts will have a 1000-year intermission (condensed for live presentation) with the first act set in ancient Egypt, the second, in the Middle Ages.

Beverly Montgomery and Izzy Williamson will spell each other as the fake and real Cleopatras in the first scene, with Terry Koonce and Neville Quarry making out the other half of the situation as the fake and real Antonys (respectively).

Jim Strange will play Octavius; Jack Wertheimer, Polectinus; and Pat Brown, Cleopatra's maid.

The second act, fashioned in Wagnerian grandeur, will feature such heroes as King Snarl, acted by Skippy Johnson; Damselia, Ann Bartlett; Ugly Mother, Deanna Day; Sir Tramtrist, Harvin Moore; Launcelittle, Roy Nolen; a company of Nasty Knights led by Robert Seiler; Percival, played by Barry Moore; and a jester, Oliver Pennington. When complete the cast will probably include at least twenty-five. More people will be added.
(Continued on Page 2)

FOLLIES . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

Among the fifteen original songs by Fred Spect and Gene Myer are a few with intriguing titles such as "I Thought About the Vow," "Love Has Found Its Way," "In My Imagination," "I'll See You in the Evening," and "Sneezing Caesar."

The show will be held December 11, 12, and 13. Rehearsals will begin tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the library exam room.