

Rice Alum Goyen, Praised By Camus, To Speak Tuesday

William Goyen, noted writer and alumnus of Rice, will speak in the Fondren Lecture lounge this coming Tuesday at four-thirty. The tentative subject for his talk is "The Art or Craft of Writing."

Hailed by Albert Camus as "One of the finest writers in the English Language," Mr. Goyen brings with him an impressive number of credits, including the authorship of "House of Breath" and "In A Farther Country." More recently, he has published "The Fair Sister," and has been appointed to a Fellowship at the Lincoln Center in New York.

Mr. Goyen is in Houston under the auspices of the Houston Post Second Annual Book and Author Luncheon, and is sponsored at Rice by Baker College. A display of his books will be in the library.
