By BARRY MOORE and LESLIE ARNOLD

THE STUDENT Council met for the last time Wednesday night. A communication was received from Mr. Sims expressing appreciation from the administration for the manner in which the Council fulfilled its office this year.

THE COUNCIL was commended for bringing to the administration's attention differences of opinion on Hamman Hall and the Student Center (both of which were entirely new, and for its work on the new Constitution.

NEWS WAS received from the Campanile staff that the Sallyport section will be forty pages longer this year and the book will contain five color pictures more than last year.

TURNING TO news of a financial nature, it was disclosed that the Charity Drive netted $1,940. $2,964.50 was spent on Homecoming and a profit of $541.50 was made. The Student Association account now has a balance of $5,011.41 less about $40 and the Student Properties Fund contains $1,012.41 of which $300 will be spent for a public address system for football games next year.

THE STUDENT Center Committee reported that there are now ping pong and pool tables in the basement of the building. The committee is still working on cold drink machines and a television set.

THE COUNCIL passed a mammoth by-law, Article C-1, Establishment and Operation of Student Organizations. It lists in detail how organizations may be formed, what their constitutions must contain, how they may be dissolved, and what the privileges of an organization are. Of particular interest is the clause stating that no unapproved group may be covered in the Campanile. Section 3, b states that the funds of any group not dispersed before its dissolution and not claimed by its members after dissolution shall become property of the Student Association.
