Hanszen To Reveal Creative Talents

By Wanda Phears and Ann Krieger

BAKER

Harry Reasoner unscrewed a few light bulbs with his handy hanky in the east end of the Bluebonnet and Azelea rooms of the Shamrock to add to the atmosphere at the Baker Dance Saturday night. Judy Ley and Jerry Wade, Carol Jordan and Oliver Pennington, Nina Weinstein and Mike Beldon danced around the columns decorated with crepe paper left over from the Baker homecoming float.

WIESS

Janice Cornell and Steve Doty, Em Lindamood and John McGowen, Sharon Atkins and Ronnie Wells enjoyed the candlelight atmosphere which highlighted the Wiess College semi-formal Saturday night. (There were no novelty gifts for the girls, as promised. Humph!)

E.B.L.S.

At Joanne Seale’s home, E.B.’s and dates danced and sang to the music of Gene Swilley’s combo (plus John Fowler) ‘till 3 a.m. at their cast party after Saturday night’s performance of “Annie Get Your Gun.” Then at 3 a.m., Jack Hollon, Bob Moody, Barbara Long, and company, turned on the hi-fi and kept the party going right on.

HANSZEN

The Hanszen Dance, to be held December 5, at the Alabama Blue Room, after the Centenary game, will feature a modern art auction. The master pieces, to be painted that Saturday afternoon by the Hanszen boys over a keg of beer, will be used for decorations, and the best ones will be auctioned off by Dr. Davies during the intermissions. Another feature will be a contest to name the mobile which will be contributed by Don Ramsey.

This is a casual, come-as-you-went-to-the-basketball game affair, from 10 ’til 1. Leo Bax-eter’s group will make the music and cranberry punch will be served. Tickets will be sold to the first fifty buyers for $2.00 and thereafter will cost $2.50 per couple.

WILL RICE

Will Rice is planning a dance for the same night, December 5. Social chairmen have not announced definite plans, but it will be a semi-formal dance and will be held probably in the commons.
