Owls Take Sugar Bowl Bid

Student Tickets On Sale Monday
For Clash With Tough 'Ole Miss'

By HARVEY POLLARD

Capping a season of football glory, the Rice University Owls set their sails for New Orleans and the 1961 version of the Sugar Bowl classic for a clash with vaunted Southeastern Conference Champs—"Ole Miss."

Although no definite plans have been set up for the social end of the affair, if enough people make reservations, the scene of what should prove to be "the party to end all parties" for quite a while would be the Fontemblem Hotel in New Orleans, January 1, 1961.

THE "PARTY" would give Riceites the benefit of a complete blast without having to pay the grossly elevated prices of famed Bourbon Street for at least one of the three "way-out" nights.

The grapevine has it that because of possible great expenses, girls from Jones College are willing to go Dutch Treat. What more do you want?

WITH REGARD TO accommodations, fifty rooms have been reserved in the Desoto Hotel for the nights of December 31, January 1, and January 2, with prices ranging between $5 and $6 per person for each night. There will be four persons per room. As is customary, over the New Year's weekend, no New Orleans hotel will rent rooms for less than three nights; purportedly they will charge twice the regular rates. Money must accompany reservations. Tickets will go on sale Saturday noon in the colleges and in the Student Center. Prices will be $16.80 per person in a 5 man room, $18.00 per person in a 4 man room.

SOME TRANSPORTATION problems may be solved by the Student Senate's chartering several buses; however, this will depend upon demand. In addition, train fare on the Missouri-Pacific Railroad, round-trip, is $22.00.

Tickets for the gridiron struggle are due to go on sale to Rice University students between December 5 and December 9, for the low price of $3.00, according to Emmett Brunson, Director Ticket Sales. Student guest tickets will be six dollars each, with a limit of two per student.
