

Scotsman Hired To Inaugurate Classics Program

Mr. Donald MacKenzie, born in Scotland and educated at Princeton, has been added to the faculty as the first classics professor in Rice's history.

For the 1960-61 term an advanced Latin course, requiring as a prerequisite two years of Latin in high school, will be offered to freshmen as an alternative to French or German.

In addition, Mr. MacKenzie will teach two classics courses dealing with English translations of Latin and Greek works.

Plans have been made to hire a second instructor for the 1961-62 school year to teach Greek.
