RICE'S Service Record

IL. CAPT. HABERT BOYER WEISER

Capt. Weiser, during the recent tours of inspection, was specially prominent. He assumed the service in the San Antonio, Texas area but was transferred to the National War Service, United States Army. Capt. Weiser is a graduate of the University of Texas and has had many years of experience in the field of public relations. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. Capt. Weiser is an outstanding example of the type of young officer that the service needs.

There was an experiment in the club.

The unit was stationed in the laboratory of the University of Arizona. As their work was extremely delicate, we were not allowed to disturb them. However, it is characteristic of the life of service that they were not only responsible for any injury they might sustain, but also for any injury their work might cause to others. This unit is one of the few in the service that can be regarded as a model for such a purpose that the government should adopt.

One of the most striking results achieved by Capt. Weiser was the preparation of the element fluorine in quantity. This element was prepared by the club and plans are being made by the club to manufacture it on a larger scale. This element is the liveliest rival of the other elements in the service.

There are three libraries out here, and there is the prettiest collection of books I have ever seen. They are all placed in the library of the town and they beauty, and are used in many different ways. There are also places in the library of the town where the books are used as reference books.

ANOTHER LITERARY SOCIETY ORGANIZED

"Pallas Athene" was given by Dr. L. E. R. L.

The Pallas Athene literary society was organized by the students of the University of Texas in the spring of 1919. It is a literary society for the students of the university and the library is the central figure in its organization. The society is composed of students from all parts of the university and of those who are interested in literature. The society has as its purpose the promotion of literature and the advancement of the students.

In conclusion, it is evident that the society is an excellent organization for the students of the university and that it will be of great benefit to them.

An old saying was, "If you want to see how the world looks, follow the sign." It somehow never struck me as a "sign".

"Soaring undaunted in limitless space, bold and unwavering in the strength of our arms, we shall sustain to their healthy and few used.

The next meeting on February 25 will be held in the library of the university. All members are expected to attend. The meeting will consist of a discussion of current literature and a reading of the works of the Pallas Athene society from now on, since, with the organization of the society, there is no need to worry about the future.
