Thanksgiving Game with Oklahoma

Norman, Okla., Nov. 6—The University of Nebraska was defeated by the University of Oklahoma, and the Thanksgiving game on Saturday afternoon, November 7, is the meeting of the Valley squads and at Oklahoma. The schedule includes the Crusaders as one of six or seven teams.

The opening game will be with Central State on Boyd Field, October 30, and the Crusaders will clash with the Cornhuskers a week later. Washington and Oregon will round out the schedule.

The Crusaders do not go to Kansas as is was announced several weeks ago by Jayhawkers at Norman, November 6. Instead, we shall appear in a victory pop demonstration when the Oklahoma Visitors Club, November 13.

The fifth field of the Crusaders 1921 Turkey day battle is set for Thursday, November 12, and the Oklahoma Visitors Club will use the facility for the first time of the season. The game will be played on Boyd Field, and the Crusaders will take on for the final game of the year.

Basketball Ball Season

Dr. Axson Returns Opens Monday Night to the Institute

Finding Dr. Axson returns to the Institute basketball this fall to take up the reins, the Institute has been rather quiet of late with the exception of one or two teams playing. The prospects are good, however, as the men are anxious to get back into the game and be in line to play Monday.

The tryout season has been over scheduled and Cawthon has brought in through an intensive training period. There are many on the court now that have been out for a few weeks and are doing as good as ever. Coach Cawthon is very much satisfied with his men and believes they are ready for the season. The schedule for the season is as follows:

Jan. 3—Baker at Waco.
Jan. 14 and 15—Baylor at Houston.
Jan. 20—N. M. U. at Houston.
Jan. 27—S. M. U. at Waco.
Feb. 3—Texas A. & M. at Houston.
Feb. 10—S. M. U. at Houston.
Feb. 17—Texas A. & M. at Waco.

Across from our cloth house is a building of another appearance: a frame house, with red-tiled roof. It looks like a country home, with beautiful form and design. The porch and lower entrance form a small canopy. The porch and lower entrance are surrounded by a lattice work fence. The entrance is a small gate, with an iron railing leading up to it. The porch is about six feet wide and has a little shed roof. The entrance is approached by a small stairway leading up to it.

The College Inn has received much praise and is fast becoming popular. The College Inn is a three-story building, with thirty rooms, each furnished with a comfortable bed and a table. The rooms are all decorated in a simple yet attractive style, with white walls and wood paneling. The College Inn is the most popular place for students to stay in the area, and it is well known for its friendly atmosphere and excellent service.

The main cast of characters have been selected and are now working up a script. The rehearsals have been going well, and the cast is excited about the upcoming performance. The College Inn is located on the campus of a prestigious university in the heart of a bustling city.

NEW YEAR’S RESOLUTIONS.

We all made one set of New Year’s resolutions about a month ago, when we were face to face with the first semester. It is to be hoped that a meritorious Providence gave us the chance we would never let the end of another term find us so unpereor-

But, you see, the New Year is not to squander time; to make it count for something. The New Year is just the time to be resolved to make good all around? The New Year is just the time to cultivate your character, not the dead weight that has to be dragged. We would not expect that students would not neglect their reading assignments; that we would not touch our math.; that we would not leave our physics and chemistry formulas, and the blood of our professor’s brains instead of three hours and twenty minutes; that we would not leave our system of the frog; that we would not neglect our pre-Lenten social affairs are at their heighth, to make all the friends you can, to look for them in the fall, in the spring term.

But, the best use that could possibly be made of the New Year’s resolutions is to have a problem somewhat like that of the traffic policeman. Air is everywhere, and then cried because she fell down to a team. You are not going to furnish the brains of the family which we take except man-power. The campus is even prettier this week: “Hello! Haii, Haii, the Gang’s (except 64) All! How’s the Gang? (except 64)” And flunking students left and right. A perfect vacuum would be one in which there is not a single free molecule.

I F the traffic policeman did not hold up his hand and control the automobiles and wagons and people there would be collisions, confusion, and little progress in any direction. His business is to direct. The physicalist who tries to obtain a vacuum that is nearly perfect has had no trouble of the sort that the traffic policeman. Air is composed of molecules—billions and billions of them flying about in all directions and often colliding. The physicist’s pump is designed to make the molecules travel in one direction—out through the exhaust. The molecules are much too small to be seen even with a microscope, but the pump jars them along and at least starts them in the right direction.

What Is Vacuum?

For over forty years scientists have been trying to pump and jog and guide more and more molecules of air from one place to another. If a new jellying device is invented, it becomes possible to eject a few millions more molecules.

The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have spent years in trying to drive more and more molecules of air from our laboratories. The chief purpose has been to study the effects obtained, as, for example, the boiling away of metals in a vacuum.

This investigation of high vacua has unexpected results. It became possible to make better X-ray tubes—better because the X-rays would be controlled; to make the electron tubes now so essential in long-range wireless communication more efficient and trustworthy; and to develop an entirely new type of incandescent lamp, one which is in a gas and which gives more light than any of the older lamps.

No one can foretell what will be the outcome of research in pure science. New knowledge, new ideas inevitably are gained. And sooner or later this new knowledge, these new ideas find a practical application. For this reason the primary purpose of the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company is the broadening of human knowledge.

"Miss Bebe Danzies and Thresher Share Double Honors"

Miss Bebe Danzies, famous silent picture actress has been received and interviewed by The Thresher, and has announced that she will come to Houston and give a public recitation in the Thresher building in the first time in the life of this element of the show business. Miss Danzies is the owner and manager of a small playhouse in New York, which he was performing in during his absence from the city. She was very much interested in the fact. The Thresher has been able to arrange a happy solution of the problem, which it all happened to be.
