No longer merely expressing pride in their great institutions, the students of present and future progress in meat, blank forms, stationary, and clothing.

"Speaking from the viewpoint of the Rotary Club, I believe that I can safely say that every student is interested in the future of his college. The students of Houston, as a whole, have not yet become engaged in any of the big things that are to come to us and the future of the city, but they will. We in the Alumni Association are fostering and building up the city, and we hope to see, before many years a deep-seated love for the city in the lives and growth in which all the people of the city will share."

"It seems to me, in my capacity as the President of the City Club, that this is the time to put the insurance plans of the city in a higher position. The city of Houston is a city of great importance to the nation and the world."

"We, as President of the City Club, are not only interested in the city, but in the world. We are not only interested in the present, but in the future."

"The time has come, and the moment is ripe, for the city of Houston to move forward and take its place as a great city of the world."

"In conclusion, I would like to express my thanks to all those who have helped and supported the Rotary Club. I am confident that we will continue to grow and prosper in the future."

"A Perfect Fit For Every Hand""
Bugs Studes... TO HEAR NOTED

At four P.M. Thursday, September twenty-eighth, Dr. Paul Bunyan, of San Antonio, will illustrate a series of cartoons on the fauna of the Big Onion River country. It will be remembered that Dr. Bunyan led an expedition into the almost inaccessible country where explorations extended over the whole of the year of the two winters. Dr. Bunyan has with him a number of important mounted specimens and pictures.

Among the interest are the photographs of the little-known club-footed antelope, which, while not in danger from the hunter, spreads on its left wind, and hides behind it, then becoming totally invisible to the pursuer; the antelope Hunter, that is not a log 1-2 times as long as the antelope, being chased three times around the Rocky Mountains in an endeavor to drive it down into the foothills where its peculiar formation would be a disadvantage; the elephant, who not only creates but always destroys, which nails on the highest peak of the highest mountain of the Rockies, and besides running away on the rubber feet in search of its prey each time it becomes with less vigor than before, and in many unfortunate cases getting so far from home before it finds that the way to the big poles of its peak overcomes him to the less powerful members of the related species.

It was on this memorable expedition that Dr. Bunyan penetrated to the bowels of the Big Onion River country, when a girl in a hot spring flowing from an abandoned hacienda, that was kept in the Great Basin, was drowned by the spawning bullfrogs driving the spawning salmon up this river, which continued its journey hotter and better and timelier and timelier until the squaws are able to take the canned salmon from the stream at its source. Biology 100 students are to be reminded of Dr. Bunyan's lectures and hand in notes.

He: "What would you do if we were to be locked in a house?"
She: "Why, my dear, what would I do if you were to be locked in a house?"
He: "You'd have to get along without me, I suppose."
She: "Well, consider yourself dead, from now on."

I had a wonderful poker hand last nite.

"Open up any money on it?"
"No—we were playing rummy."
