BAYLOR-OKLAHOMA GAMES TO DETERMINE OWLS’ FINAL STANDING

Ending the home schedule of a credible season, Rice meets Baylor in a basketball game Saturday afternoon at the City Auditorium.

The Rice basketball squad has shown wonderful ability in the four recent games but the Owls rate the powerful Owls out on defense and seriously threatening the Rice machine’s superiority.

Baylor, Miami and West Texas have found files with Rice. One victory over Rice, one over Texas, one over Sam Houston and one over S. M. U. are to her credit and the Owls must do something to ride in with something in the coming contests.

On Saturday afternoon the Owls will meet the Bears in Billingsley-Oklahoma, where they have a game scheduled with the Oklahoma Aggies for Monday night. The Aggies, it is well known, with the Owls due to training in Texas and in this final game of the Owls will get their chance to challenge the Owls in a major way.

The theory of love has been cleared up by Dr. Bailey of the Gynecology department, at the University of Southern California. According to a given theory, a love or a colored person, is one who loves the color of his hair, the angle of his nose, the whole of his being. In brief, if he loves the angles of his nose, then he is all right. If he loves the color of his hair, however, he is all right. If he loves the angles of his nose, he is all right.

The Owls came back last Friday and Saturday nights from their colourfully domesticating and defeated the Texas Longhorns in two games. The score of the first game was 89 to 21; of the second, 82 to 26.

Both games started out with a slow start, perhaps due to the fact that Peyton, Texas, captained, required an acquaintance in the first game.

In the first game Swartz at center shot the jump at the beginning of the game but failed to score. Peyton gave the ball twice in play and both times did not score.

The second game was more exciting than the first and found the Owl goal time and time again even after the game was over. Hopkins and Fitch played a prominent part in the second game, scoring 10 points while Hopkins scored 9 points and Fitch 1 point.

Friday night William was forced to retire on personal fouls and Saturday night Fitch and Peyton of Texas went out on fouls.
