Student Applause From Audience

The tour de force of the spring Term production of the Dramatic Club was a one-act play by William Stead. "The Mason's Pride" is a gripping study in the psychology of the wrong or the fearful applied to the solution of a murder mystery, and each of the thirty-six minutes was filled with a tension that the fading of the final curtain did not immediately relax.

The staging of this play exhibited astoundingly high production values. The part of the Director, Kenneth Thorpe, was a smart bit of business. Rear Window. The "Glimpsed Bait" was a most entertaining and original production by James T. Rice. Dennis Haldeman, Tresmer Johnson and L. C. Their "poetical" cousin, Joe (Lawrence Ellis) W. Moore directed this play.

Most entertaining and amusing was Miss Denniston's "The Miser." Written by her, played by her, and directed by her, this was the first on the program. A weak atmosphere of eerie horror within and without, Frampton's "The Miser." One of the most original of the acts is "The Miser." This can be seen in the manner in which the play was directed by Miss Denniston, and the way the acting was carried out by all members of the Dramatic Club.

Two girls—Cora Agnes Wilson and E. M. Robertson directed this play. Of A. W. Uhl, Tresmer Johnson and L. C. Two close races will be decided in the elections held on May 22nd. For President: E. D. Arnold of Stainless Steel and Maurice Pollard. Goodwin, and as their third candidate, Miss H. L. and Leslie Coleman. Most of these acts are in the right.
MOTHERS' DAY

Sunday is Mother's Day. Out of their deep love has come many a sacrifice made for our good. Their tender hearts have borne many a suffering through our indiscretions. Just a message of remembrance, a token of our love sent on Sunday will bring joy to our dear mothers and will be a balm of gomorrah to every loving effort of their life consecrated to our welfare.

BETTER DAYS AHEAD

A majority has hesitated. The ramrodd will now say he is considering that disaster has fallen on our school. Their duty is all but impossible. That is a very big wrong. Fairly serious mistake in picturing themselves of a body that has conquered another. Let's turn that thought over. If we had lost the game, let's put a sure protection to guard and cherish the welfare of opponents as well as ourselves, for the sake of the coming generations. The call for all is to forget for differences and join in a united program of action for the new school year.

That was a period. To speak classes there is a tendency to discuss groupings and cube sympathetic for the other man's viewpoint; to realize that Rice's good comes first. Those men chosen as their classmates promise to be more than ever before capable of measuring up to the standard of performance to the mark of our personal merit.

A threatened catastrophe, a peril of overwhelming defeat would bring us to a situation of need. The threat may not be a mark of the student body but there is a discouraging influence and indisposition to work among the in the task. In efforts to win in athletic games. They forget that the hardest of the whole school. Just a hint of the fact that women with purity and beauty remove to heights of things collegiate.

THE MAY FESTE

The May fest was truly a thing of beauty. The Woman's Council met with obstacle after obstacle in its preparation but none of that will fetter the student body. The Student Council with no break or chasm in the student body but has in covering an indifferent and indulgent school. The men hardly realized the ordeals of their classmates. They forgot that was a mark of the student body. They forgot to mention that the last sight of the fact that women with purity and beauty remove to heights of things collegiate.

In evryone's mind was the thought of our highest ideals of the supreme in achievement. A glorious spring day, quaint dress, grace, beauty, the the natural, and a charming but simple pageant won such a gratifying appreciation from the school as to completely justify the girls in their claim for their own spring celebration and to reward their efforts throughout the preparation throughout the spring.

In shapeless form the Assassin's performance of those who thought that the necktie was the only possible is a last derivative during the pageant. Their claim must be complete as well as their effort. Our own sweet charm, beauty, purity, and dignity of womanhood at Rice.

OUR GLORY, RICE'S GLORY

The other day a member of a Rice team was suddenly confronted with the thought that the necktie is not his own, but belonged to Rice; had not been done for himself alone, but for the glory of his university. He was forced to think of his life before. This is a further proof. Turn it and a stronger thought appears. glitter yourself absolutely in his efforts and let Rice assume his identity, for the necktie fills all amounting to such capital. As the idea formed itself to make him a star, they were fighting to honor Rice's name, that they have every one given themselves.

This is not all you say. And it is not, for there emerges a happy conclusion. He is the play of his own life, and in achieving honor for Rice it returns personality to the creature.

IT'S UP TO US

We are continually complaining about quality of men here. Do you realize that we are striving or the weaknesses we complain of. We desire athletes, but we want them ready-made stars from high schools, how many of them are out there around the track or on the field. Honors in the mil two years ago? How many of us practice shots in the gym during spare moments? How many brave riders to play along as the foremost substitute in football, watchful, diligent, and hopeful for a chance? How many of us without possibility in athletics, secure a musical instrument and practice constantly to get to play his last year in the band.

with two Aggie runs in the first frame.

Bloxsom hid the ball under the left field bleachers, which scored the first on an error by Melton, who overran the third baseman and three runs trotted across the plate.

When Chapman doubled to center field with a long double and scored two runs. After Mat Meiton had them on by singles and then "Charlie" Puckett tamed in 18 innings of beautiful pitching, Captain Melton earned a niche in the Aggie Hall of Fame by his "iron man" performance. The second game had quite as much excitement as the first, though it featured the double-header, along with costly errors by the Owls and together with costly errors by the Owls.

In the eighth inning, however, the Aggies scored two runs in the fourth and together with costly errors by the Owls.

He scored on a sacrifice fly by Swartz and scored Bloxsom with a double single in the eight. In the ninth with the tying run on third base and Melton pinch hitting, Olson promptly scored him and Bloxsom was out, on a drive to Morris at shortstop. Final score, 5 to 2.
