Adaptability Learned
At College, Says Dean
In Talk to Dorm Men

"No Hazing" Rule De-clared a Success; All Freshmen Charged to Uphold Tradition.

College Nite is Attended by Penix and Glenn Are Speakers.

By Walker Barnes.

An informal welcome to Freshmen, a summary of the advantages enjoyed by college men as a class, and an appreciation of the manner in which old students handled the problem of hazing were the outstanding points in an address by Dr. R. G. Caldwell, Dean of the Institute, delivered Monday night to the Rice College Nite program.

College Nite this year was staged on the dormitory green. It was attended by virtually every student and by a considerable number of faculty members.

Prior to the dean's address, Jack Penix made his report on a trip to Cuba and incidentally as speech maker. Harry P. Anderson, student President Y. K. C. A., under whose auspices College Nite was started, made a short talk on the assembly. "You may talk about adapting to life along with your family, and make a little group of life into a pattern in your address," he said, "but now you must also learn to work with hundreds of your fellow men as a college man.

A college man is distinguished from everybody else by his adaptability, by his ability to get along with many different people and groups. As a part of Rice Institute, the freshmen were made to understand the part they play in the student body and the part they are expected to do in the way of college life.

Dr. Caldwell also hit on the opening of the new faculty members. While in the party with the exception of Mr. B. W. O. and Mrs. B. J. Beil, the party including President McCloy was entertained and received aid on this examination by a special committee, which is every student's duty to receive aid on this examination and to be responsible for the work in the course.

As a matter of fact it was shocking for me to hear of these students, they are among our best contributors, the "Old Memories" that we talked about today.

The Rice newspaper parade, with its many ideas of humor and unorthodoxy of a mild nature, was the order of the day.

Treasurers and coasts and chairs, no mention collegians, lies, and other other times and the way of new and overlooked talent. The team, composed of students selected on the first part of the parade, is expected to be of interest.

"Progress is the real vindication of our university title. It is part of our investigation of the record of our students that Rice is the university title. It is part of our investigation of the record of our students that Rice is the university title. It is part of a student's duty to be furnished as required in our university title. A special tribute was paid the president of the new faculty member by Dr. B. G. Caldwell when addressing the students Monday night. He told of the environment of the Rice faculty and of the success with which Rice has been doing its work.

"The form of the pledge is as follows: The form of the pledge is as follows:

"I solemnly swear, in the presence of God, that I will not violate any part of the pledge as set forth above.

You must let the merchants know you patronize Thresher advertisers.

CONCLUDING OPINION.

Exclusive of actual schoolroom and study work, football occupies more of the Rice student’s time during the fall term than any other one thing. If a man isn’t actually in uniform, he is conducting group discussions in his room. These discussion groups perceive some unique hypothesis and occasionally at starting conclusion. And whatever trend it may have, campus talk is a big factor in molding the opinions of the hour. The first outward manifestation of these opinions, either good or bad, too often comes in the form of the football team.

College, Rice’s one of greatest. In this case the Alma Mater is an April one, a merchant’s books—proof of Rice trade.

Your fellow students, the men and women, in each class must demand discussions of matters of common student interest.

TWO AND ONE-FIFTH SECONDS.

"Thank you, this is Rice trade."

According to three step watches, it takes just seven seconds to get to the dining hall.

Another second and a half and you can say—"Where do you get the advertising you do at Rice?"

Total: two and one-third seconds.

That’s a little bit of time, a very, very, little, to ask Rice students to give when they make purchases downtown. And yet, surprisingly enough, Rice students spend more time than any other students in the country doing just that. Money.

The Owl, The Campanile and The Thresher depend on the basic men of Houston. Without Houston’s support the publications would have to support themselves by advertising in all those publications pays full value received, but it is often hard to convince the merchants of that.

Many Rice men and women walk in, say, "Give me that," pay for it and walk out. For all the merchants, the purchaser might live in Kalama.

It is a good business policy to build up a reputation by paying bills with checks. This not only affords protection in the form of receipts, but gets some good advertising at the same time. If Shotwell’s sees a $20 check from "Bill Blank at Rice" and.

"RELIABILITY"

" одно, too whoo?"

"The owl, he is a noble bird."

He and his labors are.

"This is the story that I heard."

He went to see his lady friend.

He didn’t tell or even think that he was going to see his lady friend.

The college graduate thinks he is going to rule the world some day. And the queer thing about it— he just has to have it to get along.

College life is a fascinating blend of new and old—a mixture of tradition and transition. Returning classes are back to the old destination. The Sophomores of yesteryear are jaunty Juniors. Each new class has a new status. There are now courses under old Profs, modern volumes of ancient lore, present-day problems discussed within Ivy-covered walls . . . the old gang and newcomers, new heroes on the old gridiron, fresh timber in the maple Dunhill.

Carozzi Bros. store, too, combines the best of the new with the wornout of the old. Nutmegs production of old-fashioned ideals of service. Style as current as a newly minted gold piece yet possessing the restraint that has marked the gentlemen from time immemorial. New evidence of the long-established Carozzi Bros. reputation for value-giving.
Hang Out Your Sign

A Welcome to Freshmen by Rev. Hannah Macready.

Recently, in a storm, a little boat came bumping alongside the Leviathan, and all aboard the big steamer thought surely the little boat would be lost and never seen again, but it was not surprised to see "Barney Slime" on her return.

Perhaps you may envy as much as you were not on the prairie or the sea. You are small beside the very little boat, but for so that you can get aboard—that is, if the officer says so—and some hale and hearty you will be around on a sign or map; but here it is which says "Welcome to all sign." Please hang out your sign and you will find there are many who will be glad of the opportunity to be friends.

Yes, they will even men, you were back in high, join with some of your friends on the reform of the world, or—just not too sudden, like a proposal; they will also in the discussion of life, you will find it alone for awhile and be sure you know the full facts before you begin your career before you go over the top. And do tell me all about the most beautiful girl in Pennsylvania.

You are welcome. Welcome to learn. Welcome to be. Welcome to take a part in all your schools most interesting. Welcome to the elevation of victory and friendship, and revolution's flash of all that is to be done.
Interesting "faculty marriages" of the past summer included that of Coach Philip B. Arraslie to Miss Ruth Carst of Houston, on July 25. J. H. Chilman, instructor in architecture, was married to Miss Dorothy Davis of Cleveland, Ohio, on July 27. Miss Clara Davis, on '25, and John Bonnie Baldwin were married on Saturday, September 14, in Houston. Mr. Huth is a member of the Rice family.

The following "Rice vacation marriage list" including home addresses, was issued from the office of the Registrar.

June 14, Norman H. Ricker, Ph.D., 2327 Cedar Lane, St. Louis, Mo., ex '25, 1107 Southmore.

June 20, Leonard Bernard, '20, 1200 Southmore.

June 28, Mary Shacklett, '23, 1200 Southmore.

June 28, Aline Koehler, ex '25, 1200 Southmore.

The wedding list has been completed with the marriage of Miss Meriel Day et al., to be at six o'clock, and all students at the Institute are cordially invited to attend. The Musical Council will furnish music, and the business will be chosen from the members of the Cranmer Club.

The marriage of Miss Meriel Day to Edward E. Showdor to Esch Wallogton has been scheduled for late December. Miss Showdor is a former Rice student.

The approaching marriage of Miss Mary Louis Higg, '23, to Dr. Robert Alexander Johnston has been announced for October.

Among the former Rice students who are enrolled at other schools this fall are: Miss Viola Shaffer, ex '22, who is at Wabash College, in Indiana, and Joseph Perry, ex '23, who is at Wabash College, in Indiana.

The Delta Delta Delta was present at Mr. Dallas Baker's dinner at 8 o'clock. Breakfast will be served afterwards, and a meeting of the Cranmer Club held.

Other "pledge day" results at Texas University include the following: Miss Maude Murphy, '25, 1220 College Avenue, Houston. She is pathologist in the Mary Langston Co. (Oct. 5)

Rice and the Theatres

(Editors Note: The theatre is the college's permanent dramatic laboratory. Believing that the theatre students will benefit from exposure to a variety of experiences, the administration, and the students themselves, are exploring possibilities of a student's concert and an audience participation as a part of the regular theatre program. As the student theatre grows, there will be more frequent appearances of a variety of plays, both professional and student, including the presentation of such stage phenomena as "The Thresher" and "The Thresher's Theatre.""

Constitution

V. For the information of the Student Association, the Committee of the Junior Class, which is responsible for most of the plays produced by the college theatres, will submit a complete list of recent productions to the Student Association, co-operating with the Dramatic Editor, Theris no fee for the services of this committee.

Legitimate Stage.

One play that not only has many admirers, but many real collectors, is one especially written for this season, "The Bad Man," which is being played at the Majestic next week.

A written convention mond at the Presentation of the Rice to Rice students who choose commercial careers and the faculty and students attending "The Bad Man" is a story of American life, based on the Mexican border. It is a comedy, in which the audience might see a dynamic character, the man who is the student's business partner, who never before heard it."

Okla., Wednesday at 12:30 p.m., was Splendid's European Champion Roland Blanche and Jimmie Creighton, offering a special class for the fall term. A special feature of the evening will be the presentation of "The Thresher," with Mary Elizabeth Northrup of the Student Association, and "The Thresher" as the play selected.

The student will be Rice day at the Majestic custom that Tuesday afternoon. Aesop's Fables, Pathe and from the number of Rice students present, it was never heard it before."

The headlining feature will be the presentation of "The Thresher," with the names of the various Rice students present selected from the student body. The Student Association is responsible for the entertainment of the student body.
