EXPLOSION OF PREDICED BUNK.
That old myth, the Panic that was supposed to have been whipped out by the Longhorns against Rice, has gone, disappeared, vanished, vanished in thin air.
If it had ever existed it was destroyed last October when a brainy, screechy crew of Owls outplayed and outthought the Steers and proved conclusively that FOOTBALL can down the Heismen from tearing things up.

THE LATEST OWL.
When the first edition of the 1925-26 OWL came from the press last week it was evident to every observant student that the magazine was off to a good start.
Putting out a comic magazine is no joke. Words may few, but if the ideas are lacking the effort at humor fails short.
In this case it seems that there was inspiration aplenty for both, the art work and the verbal wit. Hairiness and his crew of buffoons have produced a work that leaves no excuse for the censors to pike the paper.
That the forthcoming numbers of the OWL may equal and even surpass the first issue. The Thresher bids you goodspeed, dearly beloved brethren.

ERNEI HJERTBERG.
Talking about speed, listen to this from the New York Tribune of September 25: "Paulus's Dutch middle distance Olympic star style met with the universal approval of the experts of the New York A.C. gymnasium last week. He is a typical "Hjertberg runner"--arm swinging, wing and all. The Dutch champion, in fact, Charles Hjertberg, who coached Holland's athletes for the Olympics, is largely responsible for the great improvement in his running in the last two years."
Hjertberg has a tendency to fling his head back and "fight himself" in the closing stages of his races. Ernie taught the Flying Dutchman to keep his head down "to lean toward the track" in the stretch. The correction of this fault, Paulus says, improved his time in the 440 yard dash and 880 yard run. During his stay here, Hjertberg has started his task at Rice Institute, Henegar says, and every time he writes that if first impressions count for anything, he's going to like his new assignment.

BANANAS.
New York Daily News, September 25: "Starting the task is right. Hjertberg has drawn up an inter-class track schedule that is intended to uncover any ability that may lurk in the student body. He wants a lot of entries and is going on a novel scheme for breaking up the field."

CAMPANELLE PICTURES STILL MADE.
All films on list are to report at studio.
All freshmen who have not yet had their pictures taken for the Campanile should report to the studio on Wednesday, October 18. Photographs may be taken in the afternoon and afterward.

here. This was for the benefit of the students and as it is the object the establishment of friendly relations between the two institutions. The report was submitted in strict that no information was published. On arrival we were greeted by a nurse who answer any of the questions asked and the students were asked to live in constant dread of the wrath of the superintendent.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL CONSTITUTION
At the meeting of the Women's Council Wednesday, Margaret Lunder, president, announced that it was discovered that some of the duties usually performed by the council president were neglected for several weeks. It was recommended that the duties of the president be resumed, and that the minutes of the council be kept up to date.

The following is a copy of the constitution:

Article I - Name
The name of this society shall be "The Women's Council of Rice University."

Article II - Purpose
The purpose of this society shall be to deal with matters involving the woman students of that university, and to promote the interest of that university.

Article III - Membership
A total of five members, two members for the senior class, one member for the junior class, and one member for the sophomore class shall be chosen by the council.

Article IV - Organization
Section 1. The meetings of the Women's Council shall be held at the homes of the members, and shall be called by the president.

Section 2. The female members shall have the right to bring in evidence of their personal excellence.

Section 3. The council may be dissolved at any time by a majority vote of the council.

Section 4. The council shall have the right to make rules and regulations for the conduct of its members.

Section 5. The council shall have the right to select a president, and to elect officers of its own body, with the faculty at its disposal.

Section 6. At least a majority of the council shall be present.

Article V - Amendments
Any amendment to this constitution shall be proposed by an amendment committee consisting of five members of the council.

Section 1. The amendment committee shall present the proposed amendment to the council for discussion.

Section 2. The amendment committee shall present the proposed amendment for discussion to the council anytime a three-fourths vote of the council shall be present.

Section 3. The amendment committee shall present the proposed amendment to the council for discussion anytime a three-fourths vote of the council shall be present.

Section 4. Any amendment shall be voted on by a majority vote of the council.

The High School basketball team was all decked up for the meeting of the year, the annual Student Assembly. The news was not too favorable, but the students were all in good spirits, and the process of election was carried out in a very orderly manner.

The Arch-Art-Actors, under the direction of Miss Eliza Doolittle, presented the play "The Importance of Being Earnest," which passed off very well. The play was well received by the audience, and the actors gave a good account of themselves. The play was produced by the students themselves, and the results were gratifying.

The Arch-Art-Actors, in the interest of the juvenile welfare, held an election for class officers. The election was very much contested, but the results were satisfactory. The winners were chosen by a vote, and the election was conducted in a very fair manner.

The Arch-Art-Actors, on the occasion of the election of the new officers, presented a loving cup to the winning candidates. Each of the winning candidates was given a loving cup, and the cups were presented by the Arch-Art-Actors.
