ELECTIONS PAST AND PRESENT

Get are the days when election day meant cigars for the 'jere, and that is the way we were. So much for the past! Here's to better days for the future. The hands, rallies, and baby-sitting, seems to have vanished in the present age. Digital technology has taken over the task of organizing and managing the campaign.

In college the candidates have never been bothered very much with knuckle heads (properly called). There are some apartments, though, in the minds of those who should know, that many a man's success in the polls is determined by his ability to create a co-worker in certain cases.

There exists in the minds of those for the instant perhaps, speak to each other cordially, pass complimentary remarks on "theirs" and "yours," and invite the famed Alphabets and testament and fasting in voting for each other.

How different from that dimly remembered age when issues, great troubling mistakes, stirred the placid bosom of the candidates. The results are far reaching and the candidates for degrees are eligible for admission, provided they renew their alma mater in an inscrutable manner.

The Association of Rice Alumni has issued application blanks and the candidates for degrees are eligible for admission, provided they renew their alma mater in an inscrutable manner. The benefits of belonging to such an organization are not to be underestimated.

To keep them off his corn.

Nor yet the ear of scorn;

Successful was he;

But when his friends told it

DEFEAT OF HORNED FROGS FEATURE
Aggies and Owls Head Leaders Setbacks

The feature of the week in the Southwest conference football was the two straight loses suffered by the Texas Christian University Owls. These losses were inflicted on the Owls by the Texas A&M Aggies in both games.

The Owls were unable to cope with the Aggies' powerful offense, which was led by quarterback Maxine Jeannes. Jeannes, who was also the team's leading rusher, threw for over 300 yards and ran for another 100 yards in the two games against the Owls.

The Owls' defense was unable to stop the Aggies' offense, which was bolstered by the addition of new players. The Aggies' offensive line, which was led by Johnnie McCants, was able to open up holes for the running backs, allowing them to gain yardage.

The Owls' defense was also unable to stop the Aggies' receivers, who were able to catch passes for long gains. The Aggies' receivers were led by Sarah Brown and Martha Scott, who caught a combined 10 passes for over 200 yards in the two games.

The Owls' offense was also unable to score against the Aggies' defense, which was led by Billy Disch. Disch, who was also the team's defensive coordinator, was able to stop the Owls' offense in its tracks.

The Owls' head coach, Tom Blind, was disappointed with the team's performance against the Aggies. "We knew it was going to be a tough game," he said. "Our defense was unable to stop the Aggies' offense, and our offense was unable to score against their defense."
