LEARN LANGUAGES

At this time of the year, when King Football is holding sway over everything, and where the University students are still not quite sure what they have forgotten that, many of them are thinking of the importance of language. This, both for professional and cultural reasons. For three months the students have neglected to learn a language, and for six more months they spend immemorable moments reflecting on the past season, gazing at their jerseys and bewailing the losses.

The October 23 issue of Liberty contains an editorial which all students who appreciate language will find of interest. Through the kind permission of the editors of Liberty, the Thresher is reprinting this editorial in full.

"Readers often conclude that when writers are paid ten cents a word, they must be a dollar or more each for their stories. Few realize that the monetary value of words in written communication may be greater than that placed upon the works of even the highest paid authors.

"In the universal schools of yesterday, and one of the universal schools of today, and one of the classes in all this Latin and Greek? No one ever tells these dead languages.

"Now we can say: 'What is the use of learning that three times nine is twenty-seven?' Yet Latin is the three times nine of the modern world. More than 60 per cent of the words we use track back to the Latin root. A knowledge of Latin increases the understanding of the full meaning of words used in English, French, Spanish, Italian, and practically all other languages used in commerce; and, increasingly, a thorough knowledge of the meaning of words and ability to speak and write modern languages is becoming necessary to success in business.

"More than half of the world's business is done in English. Prior to the World War, German ranked second and Spanish third in commercial languages. A great part of the success of England in commerce, its dominance of the western world, is due to its ability to speak the language of peoples with whom it trades, while the English-speaking nations have been inclined to insist that those with whom they deal speak English.

"Anyone who attempts to do business through an interpreter is handicapped as heavily that his chances of selling are seriously minimized. With radio, automobiles and bring the peoples of the world into closer and more intimate contact every day, the world is moving rapidly toward a universal language; but, until all peoples speak and understand the same tongue, knowledge of foreign languages is the essence of success in international trade.

"The Polish Jew claims to be the greatest linguist in the world having mastered more than 200 languages. In the United States, more than one out of every 1000 persons knows at least one foreign language. The Dutch is the most popular, and the English language counts much more heavily for the Polish Jew. SAINTS: TAKE TALE OF WOE TO I AUSTIN

HERBERT SLOAN TO LEAD OWL NETTERS

C. Herbet Sloan was unanimously elected captain of the Rice tennis team last Saturday. He was the best tennis player in the class, and had a great deal of experience in the game. He is a versatile, and aggressive attack than is generally well thought over.

Owls had not appeared in a game this season, has finally more and more difficulties from their opponents to get out to practice and likely will appear in the game. He will be under the double handicap, however, of lack of condition engendered by his long illness. With Carmichael and Cannant at center, Owls are well fixed on the line. The tackles will probably be Berger and Gordan, the second time for a loss. The second time for a loss.
