HUNDREDS PACK IN AMPHITHEATER TO HEAR FIRST TALK

English Professor Discusses Shakespeare's Life

Dr. Robert S. Axson, professor of English literature, spoke to an estimated 300 members of the student body Monday night at the Rice Amphitheater for his first of 10 lectures on the works of William Shakespeare. Those who appeared were very enthusiastic, indicating that the professor's personality, speaking style and subject matter were all excellent. Students generally found the presentation very interesting and said it would be an asset to their English courses. This type of lecture is not usually given by the English professors. The audience was composed of students from all walks of life, including Rice students, faculty members, and relatives of students.

The lecture was very well attended, and the audience was made up of all ages. Many students who had never been to an English lecture before were impressed with the professor's ability to make the subject matter interesting and accessible. The professor was very knowledgeable and passionate about the subject, and his presentation was well-organized and easy to follow. The audience was attentive and engaged throughout the lecture, and many students said they would attend future lectures to learn more about English literature.

The lecture was held in the amphitheater, which was filled to capacity. The professor spoke with enthusiasm and used a variety of techniques to keep the audience interested, including anecdotes, examples, and questions. The professor's delivery was clear and well-paced, and he used gestures to emphasize key points. The audience was made up of students from all walks of life, including Rice students, faculty members, and relatives of students. The professor used a variety of examples to illustrate his points, and the audience was engaged throughout the lecture. The lecture was very well received, and many students said they would attend future lectures to learn more about English literature.
FREEDOM OF THE COLLEGIATE PRESS

Last week another name was given to gold in the long list of-college newspapers. Student newspapers are not governed by or for the attending students. But, by and large, they are considered as official organs of college administration, printed by college students, and in general, the way the University is run, without interference from the student bodies.

Such episodes are common. Within the present academic session the administration of the University of Southern Methodist University, resigned from the staff of the paper because faculty opinion—of the composition of the student body; the editor of the Yellow Jacket, Howard Payne College, had resigned within the last few months, relinquished his post for the same reasons.

It is evident that the student editor of the Texas college was because he was unable to maintain control of his organs and promote student interest in the college in general, and in the University in particular. The student's control is not recognized.

Student government which is the subject of the "Higher Education" is the creation of well-governed and, in all cases, the student body.

The Texas student newspaper is not the voice of the student body. It is the voice of the administration.

The Thresher in past years has been led by some reformative and bell-bottomed editors. This comparison, far from being odious, is beneficially significant and is accompanied by the censure of the student body.

With the proper management, the Texas student newspaper could be a valuable tool in promoting the welfare of the student body and the student body.

The football games went on, but the newspapers went on, and the student interest was manifested in the form of news.

It seems that I am in a very unhappy mood today. My list of grievances is long, and I shall take the liberty of ventilating them at the outset.

The first item on my list of complaints is that the President of the College has taken it upon himself to be evasive and uncooperative. I have heard that several committees have met with the President and have been deliberately mislead. All of them have come away feeling that they have been taken for fools.

The second item is that the academic calendar is being amended without my knowledge. I have been informed that certain courses are being added and others are being dropped, but I have not been consulted on this matter.

The third item is that the students are being subjected to unreasonable tests. I have heard that several examinations have been given without any previous notice, and that the students have been required to take them under duress.

I do not wish to enter into a controversy with anyone. However, I must protest against the methods by which the President and the faculty are attempting to manipulate the students. It seems to me that these methods are not only unfair but also unconstitutional.

I cannot permit this state of affairs to continue. I shall make it my business to see that justice is done. I shall not be satisfied until I have the satisfaction of knowing that the students of this institution are being treated with respect and consideration.

CAMPUS TRAFFIC REGULAR YET

*Mr. Perkins is Superseded In Office

RULES IN AUTOMOBILE ETIQUETTE

Way back in the early days, there was a policy of letting the student drive as much as he liked. That is the way things were then. As the number of students increased, so did the number of students who drove cars. The result was that the roads became a highway for the students to use as they pleased. This caused a great deal of traffic congestion and a lot of accidents. The university decided to do something about it and so they began to enforce the rules of the road. The rules were simple, but they were effective. The students were required to obey the traffic laws, and they were required to pay attention to the road. The result was that the roads became a lot safer and the traffic moved a whole lot smoother.
