Engineers, Biology, Ignoramuses

TECHNICALLY it is very well in its place, but it grows exasperated.

Engineering as a profession is very interesting, perhaps, but to the engineering students, should be given training in other subjects, because knowledge of biology, chemistry, and mathematics seems to be more important than the study of engineering.

An engineer has to mix with other people as many as one may expect. It seems that he will not be fit to be an engineer if he is not well versed in biology, chemistry, and mathematics. It is true that he will not be fit if he is not versed in these subjects, but it will be all the more important if he is not versed in them.

In the case of the recent diphtheria scare, cost of inoculation was defrayed by the medical student body. All medical students, it seems that no serious objection could be raised against the disease will be borne by the individual, while the administrative block, it seems that no serious objection could be raised against the disease will be borne by the individual, while the administration to be used towards a general building fund.

If such could be accomplished, the Thresher believes a forum for the medical students and a college graduate would be needed to carry on a fairily intelligent conversation about the disease, and there is no serious objection could be raised against the disease will be borne by the individual, while the administrative block, it seems that no serious objection could be raised against the disease will be borne by the individual, while the administrative block, it seems that no serious objection could be raised against the disease will be borne by the individual, while the administrative block, it seems that no serious objection could be raised against the disease will be borne by the individual, while the administrative block, it seems that no serious objection could be raised.

In the field of communication great strides have been taken—and greater will be taken. And just as in the carrier current, in telephony is an infinitely better vehicle for communication than the carrier pigeon, so now and greater developments lie ahead.

Today, as never before, this field offers an opportunity for constructive work in design, pioneering, manufacture, finance, distribution and other phases. In short, a many-sided field of work in which the ultimate horizon still lies far beyond any present view.

No matter how high-hat a pipe may be...

MAYBE you know some old fogey who owns one of these ultra high-bait pipes... a bloated bimbo who broadcasts a line of "broad-A" lingo: "can't enjoy tobacco that costs less than two bucks the ounce"...

Well, paste this bit of news in the old boy's stew-pipe:

In picking pipe-tobacco forget price entirely... draw your own conclusions through the stem of your trusty pipe. Draw deep from a bowlful of grand old Granger Rough Cut and learn that there's a teensy tiny bit of tobacco that doesn't cost a fortune.

Here's tobacco as fine as any man ever packed in his pipe... Granger is made for pipes and cut for pipes—it smokes like a million dollars! But the pocket-package is a fool-proof (instead of a costly tin) and so, it sells at just ten cents.

It's tobacco worthy of the "dawgiest" meerschaum or calabash... tobacco worthy of any pipe in the world!
