OVERLOOKING 21

BY FLOYD DUGGERY

The rule that the top ten conference games should mean little, or nothing, to the big boys of college football, this past weekend was put to a partial test. The field displayed in the last 5 A.M. games was anything but dull. Several conference scene stealers made their mark.

The nonchalant sit of Lottye Taylor is still apparent when his name is mentioned. Taylor is a three-sports engine with a motor to back it up. His ability to go after balls on the field is amazing. He has a great sense of field judgment.

One of the big surprises of the weekend was the performance of Ole Miss. Coach Pillsbury's magnificent plan with some new overhand plays and great defensive work. The Ole Miss team was completely shut down.

The game started off with Ole Miss scoring from a long pass and a漂亮的 catch by John Smith. The Longhorns then dominated the game with a series of big runs and a great defensive performance. The game ended with Ole Miss winning 21-7.

Old Man River has adopted the strategy of playing the clock. The team is now carrying the ball down on the clock instead of running it down. This has worked well for them, and they are coming away from the game with several big points. The team is now 5-0 for the season.

There is a rumor that Coach Taylor has passed out orange slices to the players along the 40 yard line. The rumor is unconfirmed. The team is now 6-0 for the season.

Today's game will be between Ole Miss and the Longhorns. The Longhorns are in the lead with a 6-0 record. Ole Miss is in second place with a 5-1 record. It should be an exciting game.
