Rhodes Scholar Competition is Open to Rice Men

Applicants Have Nearly One Year in Which to Make Application

Rice students who aspire to compete for Rhodes scholarships at Oxford University, England, will again be offered opportunities for study in the fall of 1930, through the competitive basis of the Rhodes Scholarship. One student is selected from each state, or any group of states, or any territories not the subject of a separate selection, and is to be chosen by the students in the state. This gives the students an opportunity to prove their worth to each other and to be selected by their peers. The Rhodes scholarship provides one year's study at Oxford, exclusive of the expenses of travel and tuition. Selection is based on the following:

(1) Literary and scholastic ability
(2) Good character and attainments
(3) Personal qualities of kindliness, unselfishness, and fellowship
(4) Qualities of manhood, truth, courtesy, devotion, duty, sympathy, courage, unselfishness, and leadership
(5) Exhibits of mental force and refinement of character
(6) Physical vigor, as shown by record in current sports or in their vocation

The ideal Rhodes Scholar should exhibit all of these qualities in his personal career, judging from the evidence, the following qualities are particularly desirable:

1. Intellectual ability
2. Personal character
3. Intellectual character
4. Social character
5. Professional character
6. Leadership
7. Efficiency
8. Morality
9. Courage
10. Strength

The application must be made to the Rhodes Scholarship Committee of the state in which the student resides, and the application form must be completed and submitted to the Committee no later than October 10, 1930. The Committee will select the candidates who are to be recommended to the Rhodes Scholarship Committee of the state for consideration.

A POLITICAL MASS MEETING

A very constructive piece of work in the field of political campaigns can be done in the first week of any political campaign by the action of the political campaign offices. These offices are capable of creating interest and enthusiasm among the voters, and if properly handled, they can be more effective than any other method of campaigning.

The success of a political campaign depends on the ability of the candidates to make a choice between the voters. These people would make a choice between the candidates whose votes he solicits might not provide an infallible guide to his success in the election. A political mass meeting, on the other hand, can present the whys and wherefores of their particular race. Those unwilling to lay their qualifications before the voters personally may find a way to the polls. The list of candidates to speak each day of the spring election must decide between can-

THRESHER INTERVIEW WITH SENIORS

Brought to Light Great Variety of Interests for Future

Travel, medical school, graduate work, journalism, engineering, and education—just a few of the things one senior is going to do next year. In the morning after he has a bite to eat elsewhere, he has other daily plans.

his birth recorded as November, 1009, were along toward the first of the teen summers, but their birthdays other than that do not appease our curiosity. For example, Johnny Rose had his birth date recorded as November 29, 1909, but he was born in Austin on November 19, 1907. Miss Frances Hart was 20 before she was born in 1921; Misses Elinor Bandy and Elliot Jenkins were born on the same day, but in different hospitals. The record shows they were born on June 7, 1911.

Mary Elliott, according to Judge E. Scott, will study law later.

Lorene Gammill is studying education at the University of Texas School of Education, and will work for a Bachelor of Science degree.

Bob Talley will come back to Rice next year. As usual, he will work for a Bachelor of Science degree.

MURRAY BUNDEER

Murray Bundeer, former Rice stake, who is employed at the University of California, will continue with the General Electric Company after he received his degree.

Engineers Elect Wright to Lead Coming Year

Mondell, Craig, Yancey and Ferrin Also Chosen at Annual Banquet

Anyone who chanced near the Gable House Tuesday evening to see the Engineers finish out the annual initiation, probably was among the last to realize that last year saw the end of the engineering class. The two freshmen that were enrolled in engineering, according to a member of the present Honor Council, were the last students to have their initiation in the old system which is known in any other college as "initiation".
