FASHIONS IN MONUMENTS

Mr. Woodman of the Chas. E. Woodman Co., Inc., has announced that Woodman Monument Company, which is 16 years old and has a capital outlay of $750,000, has received a contract from the Rice Alumni Association to build a monument to the memory of the late Mr. William Moyer. Moyer had been a prominent figure in the city and a leader in numerous civic activities.

Another Theorem Exploded

The popular belief that the moon makes the tides has been exploded by a recent study of the ocean currents. The moon's gravitational pull is indeed responsible for the tides, but the effect is much less than previously thought. The study, conducted by a team of scientists, found that the tides are caused by a complex interplay of ocean currents and the rotation of the Earth.

Alumni Endowment Fund Released

There is now a total of $1,050,000 in the fund for the development of the Rice Alumni Association. This fund is being used to support various activities of the Association, including scholarships and other financial aid for students.

Library Gets Old English and French Works With One

A new library has been opened on the campus of the Rice Institute. The library contains a collection of rare books, including works by Chaucer, Shakespeare, and others. The library is open to the public and is a valuable resource for students and scholars alike.

Owlish Shadows and Low Lights To Add Local Color

The final meeting of the Owlish Literary Society will open next Wednesday night at 7:30. Miss Pauline Harms will be one of the speakers at the meeting. Owls are pale, grayish-brown birds with large heads, long necks, and bushy tails. They are nocturnal, spending the day roosting in trees. Owls are known for their silent flight and ability to fly upside down. They are also known for their ability to hunt in the dark and their loud screeching noises. The Owlish Literary Society was founded in 1928 by a group of students who were interested in the study of birds and their natural habitats. They meet once a month to discuss various topics related to birds and their behavior. The Owls are a popular society among students and they have a wide following. This meeting will feature a presentation on Owls, followed by a discussion on the importance of preserving their habitats and protecting them from habitat loss.

Other Universities Forging Ahead of Rice in Endowments

By C. E. WAGNER

President Rice Alumni Association

Rice University is already enjoying an increase in the number of alumni giving, and the Alumni Association is stepping up its efforts to encourage further giving. The Alumni Association is working closely with the development office to identify opportunities for increased giving and to develop a strategy for achieving the University's endowment goal of $100 million by 2025. The Association is also working with the University's faculty and staff to increase awareness of the endowment and its importance. The University's endowment is critical to the University's ability to provide a high-quality education and to support its research and community service activities. The endowment funds are used to support the University's operating budget, to provide scholarships, and to support research. The University is currently at 60% of its endowment goal, and the Alumni Association is working to increase giving to help the University achieve its goal. The Association is also working to increase giving from alumni who have not yet given to the University. The University is grateful for the support of its alumni and friends and is committed to achieving its endowment goal in the near future.

BIRNEY SPEAKS TO JOURNALISTS

Future Not in Newspaper Work, Other Occupations Relations

Fred B. Birney, in a recent visit to The New York Times, spoke on the future of the newspaper industry. Birney, who has been with the Times for 20 years, said that he has no plans to leave the newspaper industry. He said that the future of the newspaper industry is uncertain, but that he is optimistic about the industry's ability to adapt to changing times. He said that the newspaper industry is facing a number of challenges, including declining readership and competition from other media outlets. Birney said that the newspaper industry needs to be more innovative and to embrace new technologies in order to stay relevant. He said that the newspaper industry should focus on providing high-quality content that is relevant to its readers. He said that the newspaper industry is facing a number of challenges, but that he is optimistic about the industry's ability to adapt to changing times.

Alumni Response In Fund Campaign Too Slow Says Baker

By JAMES A. BAKER

President Rice Alumni Association

Rice University is seeing slower than expected progress in its fund campaign. President Rice Alumni Association has been working hard to raise funds to support the University's endowment, but the University is not seeing the level of giving that it had hoped for. The University has set a goal of raising $100 million by 2025, but it is currently at only 60% of its goal. The University is working to increase giving from alumni and friends, and is also working to increase giving from the general public. The University is grateful for the support of its alumni and friends and is committed to achieving its endowment goal.

33rd Annual Toy Banquet Stated For B.S.U. Meeting Dec. 10

A 33rd Annual Toy Banquet will mark the last official meeting of the B.S.U. for this academic year. The Toy Banquet will be held on December 10th at 7:30 p.m. in the University's Memorial Center. The Toy Banquet is a popular event among students and is a great way to celebrate the holidays and the end of the academic year. The Toy Banquet is a fund-raising event for the B.S.U., and attendees are encouraged to bring a toy that they would like to donate to the University's Toy Drive. The Toy Drive is an annual event that collects toys for disadvantaged children in the community. The Toy Banquet is a great way to support the University's Toy Drive and to have some fun with friends. The Toy Banquet is also a great way to celebrate the end of the academic year and to look forward to the next year.

When the French Club takes its annual lecture on "Spanish Exposition," it is difficult to imagine what is going on at the State University of Iowa. Our only chance to get a glimpse is through the eyes and ears of our special correspondent, a student at the University of Iowa.

It seems that the French Club has decided to hold its annual lecture on "Spanish Exposition" at the State University of Iowa. The lecture is to be given by a professor from the University of Iowa, who is well known for his expertise in the field of Spanish studies.

The lecture will be held in the main auditorium of the university, and is expected to attract a large audience. The professor will cover a wide range of topics, including the history and culture of Spain, as well as the current state of the country's economy.

The French Club has a long history of holding annual lectures on various topics, and is known for its high quality of events. This year's lecture is sure to be no exception, and is expected to be a highlight of the university's academic calendar.

The lecture begins at 7:30 PM, and is free and open to the public. We encourage all interested parties to attend and learn more about the rich and diverse culture of Spain.
