The Rice Thresher

Class Editions

With this issue the regular staff ends here and will pause over the week of working The Thresher. For the past six weeks the various class editions of the paper have been edited by the different class steels and there was also a Color and an Engineering Edition. We feel that these editions have given their best this year and have probably more interest than ever before. Certainly much new talent has been discovered and made use of in the way.

Although some of its members served on the class editions the regular staff, as such, nothing is to be done in getting out any of the last six editions in the paper. All the credits for the successful work done on those editions is to be given to the different editors and their associates. It is an entirely different proposition to get out a paper when there is a regular organized staff which is used to the work, from having to organize a staff and set it to work for just a week. Those extra editions were certainly a success.
