Dogs Are Much More Costly Than Niggers In Panama

By DAVID J. LEVY

The reason why dogs are so expensive in Panama is because the cost of living there is very high. The price of food and other necessities is much higher than in the United States. As a result, the cost of living is much higher than in the United States.

Guemten, Notice!

In an institution such as the Rice Institute, where most of the student's time is taken up with study and extra-curricular activities, comprehensiveness of attention is given to the social side of life. This attention has been extended to other institutions. Here is some advice from Purdue co-ed advisor, Miss Elizabeth Osborne. Miss Osborne selected a cross-section of girls and here are some of the results.

Believe it or not, a handsome physical make-up was not selected as the first criterion for social success. The first necessity for social success was—of all things—a sense of humor. Out of eight girls questioned this ability was rated either fine or second to one of the right girls. The Ladies did add however that their experts must be well-groomed. Other qualities noted were intelligence, poise, adaptability, self-respect, generosity, a sense of humor, and the proper time to eat. Gracility and sensitivity were rated very high. Of lesser importance were dependability, hesitation, conventional attitude, self-control, good sportsmanship, and a pleasant voice. One student at Purdue was reported to have tried to keep all of the above but because of one of these girls questioned supposed to be one that he liked very much. He gave up in short order. However it's a question for employers.

Listening without thought is labor to that. Thought without listening is pointless.

It might appear very paradoxical to "gild a half-dozen tips on how to understand the advantages of a "good half-life." But perhaps it's not so paradoxical when one considers that a half-life is half as much as one.

New York theater fans familiar with everyone in this city—News—now. They might try pendant doubles-painted branches in the parks.

The French Theatre

The French Theatre is located on the campus of the Rice Institute. Established in 1917, the French Theatre is the official dramatic club of the institution. It is run under the direction of the French Institute and is composed of students interested in the dramatic arts.

The club is under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheelright. They have recently obtained a new set of stage equipment which will be used for the production of "Le Malade Imaginaire," a production which should be on the program next semester. The club will be presenting "Le Malade Imaginaire" on March 21 at 8:00 p.m. in the Rice Memorial Auditorium.

The French Little Theatre announces the following plans for the coming season: "Le Malade Imaginaire" will be presented on March 21 at 8:00 p.m. in the Rice Memorial Auditorium.

Rice Debaters Win Decision Over Stanford

technologically Non-Available

William Masterson and William Doesell, representing Rice, won a decision over Stanford University. The debate was held in front of the Student Union auditorium.

The debate centered around the question of whether advanced technology should be made available to the general public. Masterson argued that such technology should be kept out of the hands of the general public, while Doesell believed that it should be made available to all people.

The audience was engaged throughout the debate, with many clapping and cheering for both sides. In the end, the judges ruled in favor of the Rice team.

The debate was held on the Rice campus and was attended by many students and faculty members. The event was a success, and the Rice team is expected to continue to compete in other debates in the future.

"Heavy Water: What is it and why is it good?" was the subject of Dr. Harold C. Urey, Columbia University, on March 17. Heavy water is a form of water in which one weight of oxygen is replaced by two weights of another element. Heavy water is produced by the combination of ordinary water with two parts of another element, and is often used in the production of heavy water for industrial purposes.

FOR BETTER TASTE AND FRAGRANT AROMA

Turkish tobacco leaf is so tiny that each of these bales contains from 70 to 80 thousand leaves. But there's another and greater difference—Turkish is the most spicy and aromatic tobacco in the world.

We have Chesterfield buyers in all the tobacco markets of Turkey and Greece, including Xanthi, Xalvada, Smyrna and Samsun, and we have them blend aromatic Turkish tobacco with mild ripe home-grown tobacco as we do in Chesterfield—you have a milder cigarette, a better-tasting cigarette.
