Controversy On Campanile Photos Over Pictures Must Be Taken Before October 26 For Year Book

Miss Virginia L. Johnson of the Campus Committee announced Thursday that the controversy between the studio of the year book and the photographer has been settled through an official agreement. The photographers, Messrs. Ehrlich and Decker, agreed to take the photos necessary before October 26. The studio is therefore prepared to have the year book scheduled as planned.

Students possessing copies of previous year books will have their pictures made at the same time and at the same rates as those who will have the pictures taken this year.

Dr. Altenburg Back At Rice, Visited Russia

Attended the Physiological Congress While in Russia. Dr. Edgar A. Altenburg, Assistant Professor of Chemistry, attended the Physiological Congress in Leningrad and heard the Russian Physiological Society meeting last February, Mr. Altenburg has relinquished his duties at Rice to return to his native country to study the influence of climate and environment on the Russian race and nation in order to prepare a book for publication.

Staged for the Physiological Congress were papers on the social and cultural conditions of the Russian people, their dietary, etc., coming from the Russian Physiological Society. The physiological congress was attended by 140 students from the University of Chicago to hear a lecture delivered by Dr. Altenburg on his method of measuring the efficiency of the human machine. He demonstrated the application of his methods to the Russian people.

Early Mystery Book Reviewed By Kay Parker

One of the important mystery stories of the year was written by Dr. Edgar Altenburg, former a professor of the University of Chicago. The book was entitled "The Mystery of the Russian Race," and was written in the style of a scientific detective story. The book was written in the style of a scientific detective story. It contains many interesting facts and figures about the Russian people, their diet, etc., coming from the Russian Physiological Society.

Directed by Huston Hugh Bragg, professor of English, the book was reviewed by Kay Parker, a student of the University of Chicago. She said, "This is a remarkable book, and it is one that every student of the Russian race should read. It is a book that will help all of us to understand the Russian people and their culture."

A Miss Moilliet Takes Physics Honors Course

Cousin of Late Charles Darwin, Miss Moilliet, a student of the University of Chicago, is taking advanced courses in physics at the University of Chicago. She is the first cousin of Charles Darwin, who was also a student of the University of Chicago. Miss Moilliet is taking courses in physics and is expected to graduate with honors in physics this year.

New Students Yield To Exams

New students had to yield to the first exams this year. However, the students were not given any exceptionally difficult problems. The first exams were given in mathematics, and the students were able to solve most of the problems. The exams were given by Dr. Altenburg, a professor of mathematics, and Mr. Shepherd, a professor of engineering.

Heavy Lines Tangle When Owls, Tigers Meet Under Lights

National Spotlight On Eighth Meeting Between Two Strong Intercollegiate Enemies; Rice Is Slight Favorite

With three weeks work and one day off before the big game, the Owls of the Rice Institute were in top form yesterday. The Owls, who have been working hard for the past two weeks on their football team, are in fine form for the big game.

The Owls have been working hard on their football team, and are in fine form for the big game. They will play the Tigers of the University of Texas, who are also in fine form for the big game.

The Owls will play the Tigers of the University of Texas, who are also in fine form for the big game. The Owls have been working hard on their football team, and are in fine form for the big game.
Salons and Saloons
The majority that voted for repeal of the liquor prohibition law is not...
The Student Speaks

LETTER TO THE EDITOR
Sept. 17, 1934
New York City

Mr. John Costley,
Editor, New Theater,
50 James Street,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Costley:

At this peculiarly grim moment, I have developed the horrid habit of reading the New York Times while lying in bed. The habit is not to be denied, and I have been compelled to substitute for the before-mentioned, unreadable pinnacles of news, memorabilia of a good deal more substance, even if not exactly in keeping with the rest of the world's opinion. Such a state of affairs, however, is not altogether to my liking, for it means that I must spend all my evenings in bed, and that all my time is wasted.

With a respect for Mr. Coates, I have been forced to admit that he has done well in his task, and I have been compelled to admit that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of admiration. I have been compelled to admit that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of
admiration. I have been compelled to admit
that his efforts are not altogether unworthy of admiration.

With the highest respect,

[Signature]

The Rich Thieves

"Broadway Melody Of 1936" at Loews Friday, Gracie Allen At Kirby

Loews

"Broadway Melody Of 1936," opening Friday at the Loews, gives Happy Haviland another opportunity to build up his reputation. The picture is an extremely fine one, and the actors and actresses are all well chosen.
It is a very pleasant way to spend a Saturday afternoon.

Gracie Allen At Kirby

Gracie Allen is making her first appearance at the Kirby this week. She is a charming little actress, and her performance is sure to please the local audience. The play is "Side Glances," and it is a very good one.

The Student Speaks

LETTER TO THE EDITOR
Sept. 17, 1934
New York City

Mr. John Costley,
Editor, New Theater,
50 James Street,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Costley:

At this peculiarly grim moment, I have de-
The pleasing aroma and flavor of Turkish tobacco is almost necessary if you want a good cigarette.

Turkish tobacco is more costly when you take into account that you have to pay 35c a pound duty, but we have to have it to blend with our mild ripe homegrown tobaccos.

It helps make Chesterfields milder, it helps give them better taste. Just try them.