War Strikes Rice—Tip Loses Luxury Trade

By Ed Schoenburg

We sought Tip Clark between plays the other day and asked him who he thought would win this year’s Southwest Conference. The answer was a year of surprises.

The Conference is facing another Crop of Big Boys, who seem to have no idea what the game is worth. They are all heavyweights and most of them have been in the Conference for a long time. The Owl blocking and tackling was the story of the game. It was a good game, but the Owls lost. They are bound, to get right once if they want to win.

The Owl defense has been playing good. They have taken on a lot of new talent and are bound to do well. They have a good shot at the national championship if they can keep it up.

Rice 13, Texas Christian 19—the biggest and most important match-up in the Southwest Conference. Rice played well and look sure to be in the game for a long time. They have a good chance to win the Conference if they can keep it up. The Owl defense has been playing good. They have taken on a lot of new talent and are bound to do well. They have a good shot at the national championship if they can keep it up.
