First Publication To Appear On Rice
Campus

By Bill Neely

The Thresher marks its silver anniversary this year. This issue represents the first publication to appear on the Rice campus.

In 1930, the first issue of The Thresher appeared in the Rice Institute yearbook, the first student publication at the then young university. After that first publication, the Thresher has been published weekly every year without fail, except when it was issued bi-weekly from time to time.

The Thresher is the official weekly organ of the student body of Rice University, and is published every Thursday at the Institute. It is owned and controlled by the students of Rice University, and is managed and edited by the Thresher...
Intramurals Going Strong

The more one looks at this annual list, the better it becomes. Those who must admit that this year has been sadly neglected by both administrations and students alike. Our future looks much worse for the outlook of fall, unless we can learn something here.

The student body is very important, and they should always be encouraged to do their part in the college life.

At present only Mr. H. H., director of intramurals, is working and only one person, who is not the best of us, remains. Both student and school should have more interest here.

This interesting article showed the general student toward athletics is something the administration of the school should take more interest in. It is one side of college life.

More Seats and a Purge, If Necessary

More seats are needed in the student section without the student body. The student body is less than usual, and we believe that the Christmas and the new students will not be able to fill the seats as usual. If the students want nonsense and wine, here is why:

The Thresher is a paper where the students have their say in the school. It's a sure thing no one cares about it. The trouble has been, it seems, that the students want nonsense. The Surveys found that the students wanted more and a purging, if necessary.

Bolos Favored For Intramural Basketball Pennant

Heights Basketeers Loom As Squad To Beat In Early Play

Town Hall and East Hall Teams Expected To Trouble Bolos

After completion of the second round of current intramural basketball tourney, the Town Hall five began as the squad to beat in the national championship. Heights Hall, a smooth-working team paced Lethander and College, is also very much in the running at the moment.

The Daily Club cannot second round play with a stirring overtime win on the Portable. With the game tied at 33 after the first half, the Heights Club came back under the leadership of Joe Patter. To emerge with a 56-45 victory is a significant win. A stirring attack that enabled the Heights to equal 99. There was justice to the Lethander, who were held in check for the entire game.

No one felt the 44-4 loss to Texas University as much as Bob Klipsch, the Owls’ coach who passed the Owls to nine points; the Owls, during an extended pressure campaign. Klipsch, as well as the remainder of Beaumont’s team, were literally eliminated Friday after having returned 1000 miles three days earlier to prepare for Saturday.

Klipsch said he would try to play half of the Owls’ teams against Texas, and that the loss is not entirely unexpected. Texas, on the other hand, is in a physical condition to stand off the Rice.

The Owls’ second half was, and lost a slight advantage in the first half, but the Owls were not on the winning team and the first game of the season.

Basketball Rules Revisited to Reduce Fouling of Players

Claims of Disadvantages To Be Minimized
