THE last of the office workers will turn in their petitions this Tuesday night or as late as 10 p.m., the hour for the general ballot will be scheduled. Included in this slate is a varieyety of positions, and there are also general interests involved in a number of enterprises that have been submitted. This is a great way for students to get a chance to see how the general ballot this year has taken place.
This is certainly a great sign, because it shows an increase in student interest in student politics. But it is not without the complaints. Wherever you find student politics there is a problem of which to deal, because the number of enterprises that have been submitted can be used as a means of manipulating elections. Even though the office workers will vote on this slate, the general ballot this year has taken place in a number of years.

There are some students who demand that the ballot be made by the campus administration. The campus administration has the right to decide if a ballot will be made or if it will be handled by the students themselves. If the students have the right to handle their own politics, then they should not be allowed to change the rules at this time. They have the right to make changes and to change the rules at any time. They have the right to change the rules at any time, and if they want to change the rules at any time, then they should be allowed to do so.
