City Police Move Rice Hitch-Hikers To Dallas Corner

The Institute hitch-hikers are now all. The group -11 of them - has been moved to a "home" in Dallas by the police department. They were ordered to leave Houston after being chased by the Rice Institute police for a week. The men, who have been called "hitch-hikers," were causing a traffic jam in the area.

The Institute's president, who was named by the police, said that the group was not allowed to remain in the city. The police department said that they would be moved to a "home" in Dallas, which was named "hitch-hikers." Other groups can also move there without any problem.

Detective

"We are trying to find the group," said Detective. "They have been causing a lot of trouble in the city."

The group has been in Houston for a week, causing a lot of traffic problems. They have been accused of breaking the law by the police, who have tried to chase them out of the city.

Appling Confers At Intramural Table Tuesday

The organization of the Intramural Table Tuesday was announced in the newspaper. The event will take place on Tuesday at the institute. The table will be set up in the main hall.

The city has been a place of great interest to the Institute hitch-hikers. They have been causing a lot of trouble in the city, and the police have been trying to chase them out of the city. The group has been in Houston for a week, and they have been accused of breaking the law by the police.
