Hollywood Farce Opens Wednesday

Vina, Bridges Staged in Comedy

After two unavoidable delays, the Dramatic Club will pull the curtain on its second production of the season when it presents "Glamour Preferred" Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in Audrey Room.

Launching a long and star-studded career, Jane Vina as Kerry Elridge and Ann Bridges as his wife, Lynn, unsuspecting playwrights, are Nancy Allman Blackmon, Betty Jo Jones, Andy Hahn, Jimmie Brown, Oscar Colon, William, Stelle Foote, Beth Ann Dent, Percy John Davis and Elroy Payne.

"Model Family"
The play, a farce, deals with the "W" Hollywood farce, Kerry Elridge, first star of the screen, and his Laurence comet, wine and dine guests. For a trip to New York involves Kerry with his cocoon, first time at the Red Hot Spot, lately become by marriage to Brown Towyn of Latvia.

Upon his return to Hollywood after nearly being denuded by fans in Salt Lake City he finds his happy home to be not such a happy home and is confronted with the prosaic of his model's wife "sinking it in Mexico." With Lowen, patron of Brown Hot Spot.

In general, the comedy, which has been in preparation of many months, promises to give the audience a lively evening. The problems of the moment and enjoy a bit of Escapist Lady Bonita Towyn of London. It is an "escapist" drama.

Campus Wastebasket

The most recent resolution adopted by Student Council is worthy of no more than a merely curiosity glance. Not only should the more foresighted the printing of the usual countless hundreds of handbills which every spring make a wastebasket of the campus, but it also should come in more attention to the candidate and discerning flashy and decorative campaign nickels.

One sentence in particular is worthy of note: "In view of the restrictions imposed on the printing of handbills, all students are requested to consider whether it is necessary to print a single copy of their handbills or whether a smaller number would be sufficient."

The fifty-cent authorized last year has only one fault. It is a sum that less than half of the expenses of the last freshman election were underwritten. Many fee is up one dollar, a fair and adequate charge, and put there by constitutional provision.

Society

The junior prom was not lacking in its usual spirit last Friday night, and the evening was the selection of the queen, Elizabeth Philbrook, and the future Mrs. Blonder Spiller is entertaining Mildred Hargrove last night, and followed, the senior engineers corps and administration.

Arthur Schnabel is one of the greatest living pianists, and probably the greatest in concert. He came to Houston Monday night to find the season's largest audience before him and set out calmly and awfully to display his gifts.

Some things we'd like to know: How the friendship between Betty Ann Manette and Peggy caused such a puritan reaction, or do they really study French together three nights a week?

Melky Mary was to go by week B.A. with Margaret Powell at eleven last Wednesday night. Maybe this will explain to the boys he was with where he was. Percy Jeen doesn't know it but there is a burned-out junior that wants a date with her but is almost too shy to ask. Give him a chance won't you. Percy Harvey Ammonen and George have a word with each other. Price is after her now. Jimmie Karnon prefers A & M to the junior Prom. Virginia Stevens is beginning to wonder why she doesn't hear from Jim Roach anymore. Mitchell Saffir has been getting his picture from Hattiesburg every week-

As the grand finale to the 30-day spring practice grid, Jess Neath will pit his Blue team against Line Coach Joe Davis' Whites in a full-length scrimmage opening at 3 p.m., Saturday.

The Most Surprising performance in the track workouts last Saturday was turned in by Billy Christopher. The tall blonde, who also high-jumps and broad jumps, ran a 50.7 quarter-mile in his first attempt at the distance to move into Husky North at the snaps. He has been broad-jumping above 24 feet in early tryouts.

Hert Selman reports the runner who has the baseball team pinching him first contact is a false one. Although Harold Lambert, Chet Palmer and Florida Jacome may still be playing basketball, the Owls will meet the Texas Longhorns here March 26.

Team May Open Season Against LSU Golf Squad

Almost continual rain has prevented the golf team from holding regular practice sessions, and the tour team has not been chosen to the basis of match play. The schedule has not been arranged, but Captain George Morris said Thursday that he was attempting to schedule a match with LSU March 26. Track Practice
Season March 21

Track practice has been slowed down considerably the past two weeks because of heavy rains. The team is rounding into shape slowly for its first appearance on March 20-21 at the Pat Rock Show Meet in Fort Worth.

Coach Emmett Brunson will not make up a list of members who will make the Fort Worth trip until the week before the meet, he said Thursday.
U.S. Should Seize Madagascar Now, Slaughter Asserts

The United States should take Madagascar, strategic French base off the southeast coast of Africa, immediately, Dr. J. W. Slaughter told the Menoiah Society Wednesday night at Autry House.

Appearing as the second speaker in a series entitled "Blueprints for Peace," the lecturer in civics and philosophy asserted that the loss of Java virtually closed the war in the Far East for the Allied Powers, and predicted a decisive struggle within six months either in the Middle East or Africa.

Fascist Organizations

Every South American country has Fascist organizations ready to stage full-scale revolutions, he said, and the United States should always forget this business of being "the arsenal of democracy" and turn its powers of production and diplomacy toward South America. Dr. Slaughter predicted that the Japanese would crush their activity in Australia to widespread bombing, with a full-size invasion blocked by 300 miles of Australian desert. If Nippon becomes a serious threat to today, he asserted, Germany will make peace with Russia because of fear of losing India to the Japs.

Discussing the situation after the war, the lecturer said that Big Business was dismayed, and that virtually all essential materials would come under government control. Women, he contended, must bear the dual burden of the conflict, not only raising their families, but doing an ever-increasing percentage of men's ordinary industrial and professional pursuits, but suffering mental anxiety over new power to war.

Bob Benson, secretary of the committee, expressed the hope that an organization similar to the American Society for Mechanical Engineers would be organized. The committee recommended that the authors of the papers be submitted to the convention at East New York, the paper had not yet been accepted.

Anti-Trust May Be Suspended
Admiral versus Secretary

Washington—It hasn't leaked out yet, but Secretary of War Stimson has sent a letter to Attorney General Biddle virtually requesting that the Justice Department refrain from further prosecution of anti-trust suits until the end of the war.

Secretary Stimson's letter is couched in veiled and polite language. But its effect comes close to a demand that the Sherman anti-trust act be put on the shelf until the end of the war.

Behind this is the fact that various big companies have been compelled to come to the Justice Department to ask that they cannot push their war contracts if they are constantly harassed by the Justice Department bringing them before grand juries.
