Larry Prehn
To Head Band

Although the band suffered a blow in the loss of Kit* Reid, who has recently entered armed forces, it is impossible this year. Prehn has takes over active management of the band and will be the student director until his graduation in April. As part of the traditional holiday the Monday after Thanksgiving, the band will meet from 7:45 to 8:15 p.m. Guest instructor will direct the band to add color and noise to the Plaid.

The bonfire is impossible this year, it was explained, because student interest is high.

The hope was expressed by members of the Rally Club that as many students as possible will attend the bonfire rally.

PREHN TAKES OVER

A&M Bonfire
Replaced by Rally

The traditional bonfire and pep rally which have been the source of quite a stir and rivalry between the Institute and A&M is out this year. Officers of the Rally Club disclosed Thursday.

Although the fire will be used in the coming days, the band will attempt to keep up the standards and may enlarge the band, according to Prehn, president of the rally club.

On the general committee are Roy Sigler, chairman, Happy Atkinson, secretary, and others. Committee members are asked especially to note the usual Bandanna afternoon date has been suspended for this picnic, as plans have been made to listen to the Arkansas game by means of battery-powered radios at the annual picnic.

The members' dates are to provide picnic lunches, and further refreshments will be provided by the new members of the club, as has been the custom for many years.

Mr. Watkin Is Ill: Lecture To Be Read

Due to the illness of Mr. William Watkin, professor of architecture at the Institute, Dr. F. S. Rhoads, who has been received to be given by Mr. Watkin at the Architects Amphitheatre at 4:30 this coming Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Watkin has been confined to the hospital as a result of a recent operation. He hopes to return to the Institute within the next two weeks.

The topic of the lecture will be "The Middle Ages—Ap-proximating the Truce of God." It is to be the second of a series of five on the general topic, "Western Traditional" at the Architect's Club. This will be the first lecture of a series devoted to Roman Character. The lectures are intended to last throughout the month, being con-ccluded on Sunday, November 29.

Council Names

Two Members To Owl Board

Student Council at its regular meeting Tuesday at noon elected as members of the senior and junior faculty and students to direct and organize the Owl publication of the Owl, alumni-student publication of the Owl. The student director until his graduation in April. After he leaves an interview.

The treasurer's report on last Saturday night's dance showed that it netted the last profit of any dance thus far this year, but nevertheless it was substantially lower than which was debited to the credit of the seniors.

Council heard details of the Architectural Society's plan to sell stamps for this picnic, and gave it its enthusiastic approval and support. In other business, Council passed Mr. Beuenger's resolution giving Rally Club, campus service organization, permission to rope off reserved seats at home football games, and substantiated its previous decision to recommend that students forego their season tickets and plan to attend a game in honor of the Rice Pres-Medical Society.

Why Buy Bonds?

The architectural-sponsored Dollar-A-Month War Savings Drive begins on Monday and will last until June 10 at the Field House. It is the privilege and duty of every student in the Institute to engage fully and wholeheartedly in this systematic savings plan, a plan which is patriotic, practical, and personal.

Although the vast majority of the students will fall in with the idea and plan without any opposition—very, even enthusiastically—there will be some few who will have something of a problem to do. To these students we say two things:

1. It’s patriotic, and by being patriotic it is financially just about the best buy you can make these days. Three per cent interest is not to be laughed at when we consider the inevitable inflationary tendencies which are now definitely on the upswing. The government could probably sell its bond issue by the bucketful and not have to worry about the individual individual. Why, then, spend huge amounts of money and time attempting to spread the sale of bonds on as wide a base as possible? Simply because it can be a very good business, and that the coating of the bond is too deep for you to see. If you will open up an ever greater proportion of your capital, we urge you to get the government’s plan, a plan which is in the highest interest of our country.

2. But aside from the fact that it’s a patriotic gesture, it is financially worthwhile. Can you afford to go without three cigarettes a day that you ordinarily can see? Can you afford to put the money otherwise you would have spent on them towards war bonds? Can you afford to do without three cigarettes a day that you ordinarily can see? Can you afford to put the money otherwise you would have spent on them towards war bonds? Can you afford to drink two less bottles of beer per week than you are accustomed to drink? Can you afford to put the money otherwise you would have spent on them towards war bonds?

The rest is up to you. Can you afford it?

Rally Club Section

There has been a great deal of criticism lately about the Rally Club. In taking a surveyed section within the students’ reserved money, it was decided this week at the Field House that such arrangements were entirely the business of the student body as a whole, and the matter was thus brought to the attention of Council, which passed a resolution providing that the purchase of bonds by as many persons as possible is the best and most valid method of forestalling the inflationary tendencies which are now definitely on the upswing.

We were glad to see that Beth Henneth made the Pre-Law party Wednesday night. Bill Arnold was entirely dressed in navy blue and he was slightly dubious as he feared that in falling off the wagon he might fail quite further out with Beth. As it was the party was a great success and many were present from the Institute, some of whom are not ordinarily very frequent there. Bill got a chance to dance with many of the girls and a number of them were not much surprised to see him there. The role of Don Basilio, the sepulchral music teacher, was ably filled by Mr. Jack Wilson, and added to the enjoyment of the audience.

The heroine, Rosina, was sung by Elizabeth Baxter, two of the cutest girls of the Institute, and the use of an English lilt to For the sparkling accompaniment was marked by two rather startling moments. The use of an English lilt for the swirling accompaniment was very effective in opening the scene. The role of Don Basilio, the sepulchral music teacher, was ably filled by Mr. Jack Wilson, and added to the enjoyment of the audience.

Five Teams Remain In Play As Rally Club, Slickets Win

Taking to the air lanes in the last minute to play, the Slickpick Slickets overtook a 22-yard advantage over the USS Dewey Tuesday afternoon.

After trailing all afternoon, the Slickers were enabled to keep their slate clean after they met the club for 11 seconds. The Slickers have been tied once but are unbeaten in intramural competition.

Competition Is Keen In Bowling

Breaking their three-game bowling streak with a victory over the Dallasites, the Slippery Bickers extended their winning streak to six straight games Tuesday. The Slippery Bickers knocked off a total of 2480 pins in their three games with Charlie Bartholomew rolling a high game of 214. The Wolves dropped to seventh position as a result of the losses, standing one game out of the cellar seat.

The Junior Engineers took the lead by virtue of a three-game victory over the Dallasites. In third position are the Gutterspares, with four wins against two losses in six games. The Gutterspares, who have the second highest series in the league, dropped their second game in the three-game series for the second straight week. The Slippery Bickers rolled up 2106 pins to turn back the Wolves with 2028 pins. After dropping their first series, the Alley Area turned back after the USS Texas tallied 2057 pins in the third game to tie the Wolves at fourth position. The Dallasites dropped their series to the USSR Connors five games to 2016 pins.
