Escorts of The Rice Court Named By The Women's Council

With plans fast developing for the Homecoming, the Women's Council announced yesterday the names of the escorts for the Home Court. John Van De Mark of the Beta Club will be Charles Plambeck, with whom he will be paired. The other escorts are: William Estes, with whom Plant Science and Business Administration student Deane Smith will be paired, and Charles D. Atkinson and Horace Jones, whose partner will be Mary Alice Loucks. The Women's Council also named the King and Queen of the Beta Club as John Van De Mark and Mary Alice Loucks.

Ed Jennings States Goals of His Office As Council Head

"I'm sure enough that democracy really means justice to the people," said Ed Jennings, the new Student Council president, in a statement made at the beginning of his term.

"I hope that more people will take an interest in the Student Council," he said. "We have a lot of work to do this year, and I think it's important that everyone get involved.

The first meeting of the new council will be held at 5 p.m. today in the Student Union. At the meeting, the council will elect new officers and discuss plans for the upcoming year.

"I'm looking forward to working with everyone on the council," Jennings said. "We have some big goals to work towards, and I think we can do a lot of good things for the students here at Rice.

The council has already set some goals for the year, including increasing student involvement in campus activities, improving communication between the council and the student body, and addressing some of the concerns that have been raised in the past.

Jennings also talked about the importance of justice and fairness, and said that he plans to work on issues related to these topics throughout the year.

"The Student Council is here to serve the students," he said. "I want everyone to know that we're here to listen and that we're here to help.

We'll be meeting every week, so everyone is welcome to come and see what we're doing. I'm sure that we can make a real difference this year, and I'm excited to be a part of it.

The council will meet every Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Student Union. All students are welcome to attend.

Seniors to Form Spring Musical Group

The Senior Committee has announced plans for a musical production to be held in April. The group will consist of about 30 girls, and the purpose of the meeting will be to elect officers and discuss plans for the show.

"We're really excited about this," said senior committee chairwoman Betty Phillips. "It's a great opportunity for the seniors to get involved and have some fun.

The show will be held in the Rice Theatre, and tickets will be sold at the entrance. More details about the show will be announced soon.

The seniors have already begun working on the show, and they're looking forward to having a great time on stage.

In other news, the seniors have also announced plans for a senior picnic and barn dance, to be held on Sunday afternoon.

The picnic will be held in the Rice Park, and the barn dance will be held in the Rice Ballroom. More details about these events will be announced soon.

The seniors are excited about the upcoming year, and they're looking forward to all the fun things that are ahead.

Four of the six scheduled softball games were played last Sunday, as the weather permitted. The two teams wished to be home for Easter, but only the teams live out of town and wished to be home for Easter. These two games, both of the West, were played Saturday afternoon, the other two being postponed until sometime next week, as the weather permitted. The games were played on the fields near the school. The teams played on the fields near the school, as they were not able to play on the fields of the other team.

Today Marks First Inauguration of Rice President

By Doris Moellenberndt

Thirty-nine years ago, in October, the formal inauguration of the Rice Institute was held. Significant from the point of view of the university's growth and development was the opening ceremony of the new building established by Andrew W. Mellon, the first president of the institute.

Dr. Houston, who was on hand to preside at the occasion, said that the present move to the new campus marked the end of a period of expansion and development. He said that the university had outgrown its old quarters and that a new facility was needed to meet the demands of the present day.

"The new building," he said, "is a symbol of the progress that has been made since the inception of the institute. It is a reflection of the faith and confidence that have been placed in the work of the institute, and it is a tribute to the efforts of all those who have been associated with it over the years."

Dr. Houston said that the new building would be a fitting symbol of the university's future, and that it would be a tribute to the memory of those who had helped to make it possible. He said that the university would continue to grow and to develop, and that it would be a source of pride and satisfaction to all those who had been associated with it.

RICE GROWS, STILL KEEPING WITHIN THE FOUNDER'S DESIRES

By Nancy White and Robert Fugel

"It was my mother's wish," said Dr. Houston, "that the university should continue to grow and to develop, and that it should be a place where students could learn and grow."

Dr. Houston said that the university had continued to grow and to develop, and that it had made significant contributions to the world of education. He said that the university had continued to be a source of pride and satisfaction to all those who had been associated with it.

Proposed New Buildings Will Almost Double The Present Physical Plant

By Elia Warrhe Carby

Rice Institute has almost doubled its present number of buildings upon completion of the new structures on the campus. The new buildings will also provide more space for the students and faculty, and will make the campus more attractive.

The Rice Institute Board of Trustees

The Rice Institute Board of Trustees meets to discuss and decide on important matters affecting the Institute. The board meets regularly to ensure the continued growth and success of the institution. The board is composed of a diverse group of individuals who bring a wealth of experience and expertise to the decision-making process.

One of the most important responsibilities of the board is to approve new buildings on campus. This includes reviewing proposals for new structures and making decisions on their construction.

Another important responsibility of the board is to review and approve new courses of study. This ensures that the curriculum remains relevant and up-to-date, and that students are prepared for the challenges of the modern world.

The board also has the responsibility of approving new members to the Institute. This includes evaluating applications from potential members and making decisions on their admission.

Overall, the Rice Institute Board of Trustees plays a crucial role in the continued success and growth of the Institute.
