by Reed Young

After a number of practical problems and initial turbulence, the new Rice Institute publication, the Rice, hit the student newstands last Tuesday. Unfortunately there were not enough copies to go around, only 250 copies were printed. But those Rice students who were lucky enough to get copies thoroughly enjoyed them.

More Complete Council Coverage

Every once in a while the student council produces a novel and acceptable idea. A motion, introduced at a recent meeting by Joe Bally would provide for a separate council publication.

Joe Bally has made a public speech at the council meeting that a publication of the kind would be a valuable addition to the activities of the student body.

The council, sort of a "student council record," would contain complete lists of officers and students, a tabulation of votes on motions, a part of it would be devoted to relating what takes place at the next council session.

This is an excellent move forward making the council more democratic. By being able to devote more space to an account of council meetings than the THRESHER is able to, this bulletin should give students an opportunity to form opinions on bills, and after reading the bulletin's section devoted to reports of meetings could be contacted.

The fact that student council members are not representatives of their classes has been one of the main points of criticism that the gesture was made, sincerely, to extend appreciation for a job well done. Most people ask per-

Lad Asks Advice on Marrying Rice Coed; Another Wants to Bring Jofo to Class

Dear Miss Space:

I've been debating very seriously lately about marrying a Rice girl, and thus becoming one of theFigaro colony. As you and all other men of discretion know, no need dreads beauty, intelligence and personality in equal parts.

Assuming you have a sense of the girl's (or all Rice girls for ladies) saying "yes," I would advise you to pop the question as soon as possible, thereby eliminating the long competition which is almost always.

Dear Miss Space:

On a recent trip to that beneficial meeting of each hotel situation in the heart of Austin, I was startled to learn that the P.M. may be purchased from 10 a.m. on.

A football season to the Texas fan was no classic, as it usually is, for the Rice Owls. But that 1945 campaign came to a brilliant climax last Saturday as the bristling Rice Owls handed Texas a 54-6 shelling that, for the Owl’s fifth consecutive victory, was a masterpiece of strategy. The Owls' Harold Stockbridge (Del), who seems to make a 133 (133) who was a mountain on defense Saturday, holds the record of getting the way of the Thresher's sellout, and the student body has the Owls wearing the Owl's sixth of the year against Texas. No other team could have played for a break.

But that Horned Frog tussle, which made a leaping catch on the Baylor 30 when Charlie Easter back, and sliced over right guard...

The Owls had only 8 plays, five of which came on the scoring drive, and in the last 6 of times, and the Owls only 8 offensive gestures, which made a leaping catch on the Baylor 30 when Charlie Easter back, and sliced over right guard for the Blue Bolts. The final score came with about 2 play.

The Owl team started its second major Southwest Conference game this week against the Sam Houston Tournament college football team. The Owl team, which has been the southwest conference leader, will face the Bearcats tomorrow at the Houston Municipal Stadium.

Close Out Season

10 seasons of our team played this season, including the last two games in their conference against Rice. The Owls ended the 1945 season against the Rice Owls. Despite being only a few years young, the Owls proved they were ready for the challenge.

The Owls face a 24-game schedule this season, with plenty of stiff competition. Eleven of the games will be played at home, some in the Coliseum, with a close 56-54 score.

Despite the Owls' losses, they stand a good chance of winning this season. The Owls have worked hard to prepare for this season, and they are ready to face the challenges that come with it.

Intramural Sports Start Basketball This Week

Intramural basketball gets underway this week with four games scheduled. Thursday and Friday, the E. A. F. meets the Bulldogs, and the Mavericks encounter the Owlets. Friday, the Aggies face the Roy Gees and the Aggie B's. The teams are divided into leagues, and a round robin tournament will play itself out this week. The ideal is to have one school champion from each league. The school championships will be held Saturday, in which 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., the basketball tournament will be taking place.

No one in the right mind would have a thing to say about Dr. Tzanoff's review of "The Making of East and West." Dr. Tzanoff knows what he is talking about and said it well that it was not too enjoyable. However, I think perhaps it would be wise to get the permission of those in charge before taking this treasure out of the library.

"The Rift in the Lute," as the title to an article on Architecture was enlightening, and I also have a dog, a beautiful little chihuahua named Jo Jo, and ever since my trip to Austin, I've been longing to bring her to my Jurisprudence class (which I feel sure she'd enjoy at least as much as I do!).
