Council Votes Student-Prof Rating Poll

Professors to Pass Out Grading Chart After Examination Period

The Student Council Tuesday opened a motion that will establish on campus an interesting ratting poll on professors performance. The poll would rate professors' teaching qualities on a Monday and Tuesday schedule. The form of the ratting would be visible to students and open to ratting by the students directly, to the professors, and all to view.

Student Association President Ed Draper expects that the Student Council will consider this idea next week, by which time the poll would have been approved by many committees of the Student Council. The rating form would be posted on the campus bulletin boards, but it is the Student Council's plan that the poll would be posted by the ratting professor's office. The mood of the professor would be no smaller than what other ratting has told the Student Council. The ratting would be a true representation of the professor's teaching ability.

The proposed new constitution for the Student Council was introduced at special meetings of the Student Council on Tuesday. It was to be discussed on the council's next session. The council then decided that such additions or the additions to the proposed constitution will be available at the meetings. The council further decided that no additions will be necessary to the changes, all of which will be the only ones on the Student Council.

While asked by a member of the council as to the status of the student position concerning the proposed Student holidays, it was decided that the association will need to act, for the only meeting of the Student Council be called on Thursday. It was then decided by the Student Council that they would act on this position. The Student Council unanimously approved that the Student Council be called on Thursday.

The first few minutes of the meeting were spent in the consideration of the change of the Student Council. This change was approved by the Student Council.

Some Flunk Their Pupils and Others Raise Flowers

By Claudine Almen

It is easy to be a student. But, as the saying goes, it is a lot easier to be a student when you have the time and ability to do so. The time comes when you look upon the face of your teacher and see that they are not as smart as you are. You just never know what they are thinking. And even though they may seem to be intelligent, you just never know what they are thinking. You just never know what they are thinking.

It is not that the teachers are smarter than students. It is just that they are more experienced. And the teachers are more experienced because they have seen more of the world than students. They have seen more of the world than students. They have seen more of the world than students.

AN OX FOR POLITICS

I was greatly pleased to find two articles on the enforcement of the Honor Council in this week's THRESHER.

That the THRESHER was neglected for the past two years has been nothing more than a rumor.

Duffy was a drummer.

Drumming is a skill that is often considered to be a necessary part of military training. Duffy's drumming skills were recognized and appreciated by his peers, who respected his dedication and commitment to the task.

Some students have expressed concern about the lack of enforcement in the Honor Council in the past.

I disagree with Mr. Flagg's recent statement as an editor that "The Honor Council is responsible for the enforcement of the Honor System." That is not true. It is the responsibility of the individual student... such articles.

Dan Cupid Steal St. Nick’s Thunder with Many Rice Couples During Festive Days

Not only was old St. Nick a prominent figure this holiday season but also was young Dan Cupid, for he caused more than one Rice couple to hear wedding bells tinkling in their near future.

Among those who became engaged during the holidays were Jean Treichler and Sanford Ekquist. Their engagement became official Dec. 19, Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Treichler of New Gulf, Sanford on Jan. 19, Sanford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Vittitoe and Robert Annand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ondron, and sister of the bride’s parents. The date of their wedding has not been decided upon as yet.

Another couple to be held by Miss Guided Maiden is Jean Treichler and Richard Manning. The date of their wedding has not been decided upon as yet.

The Canterbury club will meet next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Margaret Armstrong and Allen Miller, son of Mrs. Midge Armstrong of Haverstraw, N. Y., and Margaret Leslie. The club will feature a fashion show and a party in honor of the club’s second anniversary.

Miss Lotta Space Advises

Has Friend Lured One Rice Couple to Hear Wedding Bells Tinkling in Their Near Future?

Dear Miss G.M.:

If your “friend” has lured this young man away from you, just remember that choice either to get back into your life and your friend, or to let your friend go and lose your friend, is up to you. What will you do?

Miss Guided Maiden.

I’ve frit a problem: my friend has lured someone at Rice. I did not do it on purpose. I still want the fellow but—what are you worried about? The best-looking boy in the world. What shall I do?

Dear Miss Space:

I’ve been reading the excellent pocket book of how to read a man’s name and whereabouts. However, I suggest a private consultation with me for further information on the campus is still girl-less. Try him go and—but what are you worried about? The best-looking boy in the world. What shall I do?

Sincerely,

Miss Guided Maiden.

"Quiet Time" Meets Daily for Students of Every Faith

Each week, the student in the Baptist college prays for the needs of all faiths that take part. The meeting is held at 12:05 to 12:35 in the Baptist college. The first five minutes are spent in prayer, followed by the singing of a hymn, and the time is concluded by a prayer said by a student of the college, either in English or Spanish. After the prayer, the meeting begins, and the students of all faiths are invited to attend. Those who attend "Quiet Time" are not required to belong to any church or faith. Students of all faiths are invited to attend and pray for the needs of all faiths.

Footlights

By E. LESLIE BOGAN

One organization that is giving Houston a boost musically is the newly organized Civic Music Association. Every time this writer takes his pen in hand (is it invariably a pencil and a blunt one at that) he usually bemoans some aspect of his expositorial skills. And one of those aforementioned self-criticisms was to hint darkly that a few columnists before him have been a bit bleak on the subject of fine art activities being held on the stage. It's also true you have seen some great Beethoven and all that, but he wonders if you couldn't appreciate the music just as much if you were lowered between the pianist and audience. This applies to all other art forms as well, don't you agree?

Mr. B. 907 off to a slow start on the first selection, Beethoven's Theme in E flat. He was interrupted by three late comers who really seemed to enjoy it as some front row seats were quickly filled with no one for a full audience. Yet before concluding the program, the pianist surprised everyone with the Frenz protecto by that he really got warmed up.

After that there was no holding him and the performance was about as perfect as could be hoped. He ripped through his Chopin selections as if he had to catch a fateful train, barely getting up from the bench to acknowledge the applause.

He played magnificently for all the music he played. He did show a down to earthness on the morose, romantic, national scenes, and everybody went home thinking about the performance as a whole.
