Readies Exhibit On 1900-50 Era

"Operation Flapper," will present the first fifty years of the Twentieth Century as the History Department's exhibit for the Rice Review next April. The exhibit will be aimed at a presentation of life during the first half of the era 1900-1950. As a feature of the exhibit, many dealing with important events and people will be illustrated, as shown in Fondren Library Lecture Lounge.

DeMoss Enthusiastic About TISA Plans

By BETTY MCEVER

News of the new District Program of the TISA was brought back to Rice by Hal DeMoss, president of the student association. Hal attended the convention at Waco on October 20 and his report consisted almost exclusively of the new plans, which he recommended to the new plan, set up at the convention.

Under this plan, Texas, as a state, is divided into ten districts. Our district is District IX. Included in this district are: Rice, Lamar Tech, Texas A&M College of Commerce, and the University of Houston.

There are quite a few more schools in this district but they are not as far members of the TISA.

In our district, Lamar Tech is the first chairman. The chairman will be retained alphabetically with the chairman holding office for one year.

This plan constitutes a break-down of the TISA into smaller, more compact units which can achieve more for themselves and their country than can achieve it on a large scale. Four schools and their students can benefit from this co-operation in joint action.

Owls Face Frogs Tomorrow

The Southwest Conference race will not be decided this week-end, but many pertinent questions will be answered following tomorrow afternoon's game between Rice and Baylor.

Four Speakers Discuss Rice Honor System

By FLORENCE KESSLER

It was in the cold, cold of the morning that the sight lighting society assembled their contributions to the Homecoming activities. Around 7:00 a.m. Saturday when most individuals were still deep in slumber, girls from various clubs were seen sürüng about equipped with crape paper and match tarts for the registration booths. Each giant had been a period of five years and a wooden booth to decorate for this group of alumni. Prices of $1.50, $1, and $1 were to be awarded to the three outstanding booths.

At noon the exhibits were scored by the OWLS received first prize. The OWLS registered in the lowest from 1900 to 1910, a booth converted into a large blue and gray exhibit. The materials used odd enough were chicken wire and paper napkins.

The BLS managed to capture second place with an elaboration on the period from 1900 to 1905. The "SSS" theme was carried out in pink and black crepe paper with a Chinese scrosc scene depicted on the front of the booth. A live flower was used to complete the picture.

A booth in the form of an old gray hen with blue ribbons on it brought the PALS third prize. This booth covering the years from 1930 to 1990 had on display the Orange Bowl and Cotton Bowl trophies won by Rice during this period.

Rice Profes Speak

On Museum TV Program

The Museum of Natural History presents a program of Nature in Action each Thursday night from 7:45 to 8:00 in cooperation with KPRC-TV. Rice Institute professors are lecturers on three of these programs. These programs were developed to help stir up public interest in the Houston Museum of Natural History.

On November 1, Dr. Chan, F. Squire, Professor of Physics discusses the "Lights in the Sky"—the secret homilies, radio waves, and aurora borealis, rainbow, etc.

Hal DeMoss, who is very favorably impressed with the plan, was most enthusiastic about the TISA by the time he departed.

Here in Houston, we have four major colleges. This district plan should provide a tremendous opportunity for all four schools and their students to benefit from this co-operation in joint action.

Film Society Prepares Next Semester Program

The Film Society has already begun preparations for its new semester's service of films. The new or renewal memberships will be open around January 15, after the last film of the present series. The pictures will continue to alternate Mondays and Tuesdays in the Houston Symphony Music Series. There will be approximately fifteen movies next semester covering such important subject as "The North," a famous Lekins documentary; "It Happened One Night," starring Clark Gable and Claire Booth; and "My Little Chihuahua," starring Spencer Tracy.

There are six films remaining in the present series, including "A Nous La liberté," a French Communist propaganda film; a German version of "Dr. Caligari," another German picture, "The Trouble Is That They Be Or Not To Be," with Carol Lombard and Jack Benny; and "Messieurs les Bourgeois," starring Rudolph Valentino. Showings are at 3:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. in the Fondren Library Lecture Lounge.
Roost Booth Closing

The closing of the Roost booth has been a constant inconvenience to the majority of the students and faculty. These booths are the most comfortable place to sit in the Roost and double their seating capacity. To someone hurrying to catch a cup of coffee between classes or on his way to study, the five or ten minute wait behind those stoolsitters with the vacant booths in between is enough to make a person impatient.

Much clipping can be heard on all sides against the management of the Roost for not providing sufficient help. Apparently the labor situation in restaurants and cafes all over town is tough.

The Roost management attempts to have competent counter men. Mr. Garner will tell anyone who asks that he has a standing request for help at a local employment agency.

In other words, the Roost management is trying. At the beginning of this year, a serve-yourself plan, like the one used in the Spring of last year was tried. It was discarded because a few students wouldn't cooperate. All any student using the booths was asked to do was pick up the dishes and napkins he had used and put them in the dirty dish tray. It involved neither dirty nor complicated work. It was a convenience to the students.

In one case, not only did the students leave the table in a mess after agreeing to pick it up, but also insulted the Roost management when they were called back in and asked to help pick the litter they had made on the table.

The Roost management seems willing to give the serve-yourself plan a general try. He will open the booths to all, provide almost double seating capacity and not inconvenience to anyone. The Roost will be willing to give this a trial run ... if all the students are willing to cooperate. Are you willing?

Threshing It Out

TO THE EDITOR:

That the primary objective of a college newspaper should be to serve the student body. Each newspaper, however, has its own separate function, but this function should always be kept in mind while working on the paper.

Mr. Garner suggests an early article on the scientific progress being made in the laboratory. The committee wants an article on the progress of the laboratory work. The Roost would like to see an article on the progress of the laboratory work.

Individuals, without whose special help and co-operation the bond drive could not have been built:

To the throaty voice of the students, "The Thresher's" most important publishing day, like the one used in the Spring of last year was tried. It was discarded because a few students wouldn't cooperate. All any student using the booths was asked to do was pick up the dishes and napkins he had used and put them in the dirty dish tray. After the Clemson game, this observer came away with the idea that the Owls had used a mighty few plays against the Tigers. This observation was filed away in the back of the mind, but has kept cropping up as the weeks pass.

Rice students and fans this year have watched the slow but steady development of an offense. The loud sputtering in the initial stage in the long Owl drive to Texas, Pittsburgh and their first touchdown—Arkansas games finally became in the second, third right now—but this uniform roar and screams game.

The patient wait for the effective use of the convoy pass was rewarded in the Arkansas game, setting up the victory. The quarterback end-run finally cropped up in the Aggie battle at a crucial.

THE QUICK-KICK is again very much a part of the Rice attack. The crushing drive, which has been so characteristic of Neely coached teams of the past, came to the forefront again in the 95-yard drive that tied the Aggies at the half.

* * *

The sportswriters of this town finally agreed on a turning point of a game. It was, of course, Teddy Riggs' tremendous 80-yard run for the cinching touchdown. And, yep, here we have still another Neely trademark rising up.

* * *

Wait until next year! The famous Aggie chant breaks out again. Five years of waiting by this student of Rice for the Aggies to fully rise up hasn't produced anything but two new Aggie coaches. Nary a win over the Owls in those five.

Two events have stood out for this writer in the Southwest this year. Arkansas' great strides toward a football team (even after their loss to SMU), and Texas A&M's disappointment as a title contender. A third, the rallying of a potentially strong TCU team, stands up and screams right now—but this writer would prefer to reserve judgment for a couple of weeks.

Thresher predictors getting three out of four? Luck, fluke, the law of averages, or what have you, it happened last week. The results:

Rice 28, Texas A&M 13
Texas 32, TCU 21
SMU 47, Arkansas 7
Baylor 42, Wake Forest 0

The record for the season still isn't red hot, with 23 out of 40 for a .575 clip. This week the two big scorers of last week meet at Waco, Arkansas closes out its season against Tulsa, and, ah, there's something happening up at Fort Worth.
