University loses security lawsuit

by Jeremy Hogaisky

A Houston jury awarded $110,500 to a Rice alumnus on Nov. 3 in a civil liability lawsuit against Rice University.

Amy Barber, Brown '99, alleged that Rice acted negligently in providing insufficient security to prevent an attempted assault made on her in the Brown seventh-floor bathroom on Feb. 12, 1989. The suit was tried in the 156th Harris County District Court.

The jury that found Rice negligent also dismissed charges of gross negligence against former President George Rupp, then-Vice President of Student Affairs Ronald Stebbings, Campus Police Chief Mary Voswinkel and then-Food and Housing Director Bob Mathis.

Shirley Redwine, Rice general counsel, said she was disappointed by the outcome. "I believe that Rice's security at that time was better than at all other universities. Rice security was not the cause of her distress," she said.

Barber's suit asked for $600,000 for mental anguish and medical and counseling expenses. In addition, the suit charged Rice with gross negligence, contending that the university "actively demonstrated conscious indifference to Barber's willieness. The plaintiff's first amended petition asked for $3 million as punitive damages for gross negligence.

The petition contended that "even though the defendant had the funds and personnel with knowledge and skills to correct the security deficiencies and the ability to install adequate and proper security measures which would have prevented Plaintiff's damages, it failed to provide adequate security." It specifically noted a lack of "adequate locking devices and alarms on entrances and exits."

To determine gross negligence, the jury was instructed to determine whether Rupp, Voswinkel, Stebbings or Mathis were responsible.

Guaranteed Rice tuition rumored

by Ron Dyer

President Malcolm-Collins may soon propose dramatic revisions of Rice's tuition and financial aid structure in response to widespread concern about tuition increases, according to several student leaders.

"There is a rumor out . . . that [Collins] might be coming up with some kind of different economic plan, I don't know what it is," said Sid Richardson College Sen. Linda Kaiser, co-chair of the Student Association Tuition Committee.

Co-Chair David Rhodes, a Will Rice College sophomore, said there are rumors of a plan to guaranty incoming students tuition at a fixed level during their four years at Rice. Such a program would involve a substantial raise in tuition for new students at Rice, most likely in excess of $600.

Students would pay this amount each year that they remained at Rice, adjusted only for inflation, but the fixed amount for the remaining class year change. Such a plan would ensure that students will not be forced to know Rice because of unexpected tuition increases, although it would not necessarily decrease initial tuition paid by a student over four years.

In deposition, Barber said a man accosted her in a bathroom stall, but she fled without being physically harmed.

At that time, Brown's resident had voted to leave the doors facing the campus open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Rice's defense attorney, Philip Dye, said it is believed that the assailant entered the building shortly before 7 p.m.

Charles C. Howell was turned in by military police to city police in Irving on Feb. 22, 1989. He was convicted for assaulting Barber and two other cases involving female Rice students.

Seven days before Howell was at Brown, a Frye-errol boy entered a women's bathroom at Hanszen College and accosted a student taking a shower.

Dye said he thought the Hanszen incident was a key factor in the jury's decision.

According to Dye, the university began to install locks on all college rooms, according to F&H officials. Current Rice Freshmen Dashan Amrit, left, and Carmen-Gloria Yamal may not be brushing their teeth together next year if Brown's bathrooms go single sex.

F &H and Brown College face off over co-ed bathrooms

by James Tolke

Food and Housing's proposal to create separate-sex bathrooms for Brown College has present in the minds of many students among Brown members, most of whom are unhappy with the current system.

Brown is scheduled for renovations next summer, and one of the big concerns next summer is by F&H in solving the college's co-ed bathrooms. F&H Director Marion Hicks said location city code requires separate bathrooms for men and women when renovating.

"The code won't allow males and females on the same floor without male and female bathrooms," he said. "It is the code we have to conform to when we renovate."

Students' parents also have written letters objecting to the co-ed bathrooms, according to F&H officials.

Currently, each floor of the college has one co-ed bathroom. Because Brown was built as an all-women college, only one large bathroom was allowed for each floor. But when the college became co-ed in 1986, the university included an interim policy in which every other floor would have a single-sex bathroom, with the floors swapping bathroom sexes at semester.

Brown members, however, didn't like the idea of walking up and down floors to use the bathrooms. Thus, now each floor holds an annual vote, which must be unanimous, to make its bathroom co-ed.

Some have suggested there is a great deal of pressure for students to support the co-ed vote. Despite this, however, a recent poll found 59 percent of students surveyed favor no change in the system, while 41 percent said they would prefer single-sex facilities.

"There is a small minority who specifically dislikes co-ed bathrooms and a small minority that specifically doesn't like them," said Brown President Rachel Harwitz. "Most just think it is ridiculous to spend so much money on a thing we don't feel we need.

"We [F&H and Brown] do have one point of agreement. There should be bathrooms for those who feel peer pressure in the matter."

The Brown Renovations Committee has discussed many different solutions with F&H, but all depend upon the interpretation of the building code, which has only recently become part of the dilemma, Harwitz said.

Without the code, the original intramurality policy would be implemented.

Through one interpretation of the code, two floors could be single-sex, with corresponding bathrooms, and the rest could remain the same; single-sex facilities were made available to members of the college.

But Residential Colleges Coordinator Bob Truscott said he wasn't sure if this option would be following the code. "The university wants to provide two different-sex bathrooms on each floor. The city ordinance requires it, and we are working under this cre-
TUITION

Guaranteed tuition plan will benefit families if it avoids pitfalls

Rumors of a presidential initiative to add stability to the costs of a Rice education rightfully have students excited. The plan, which would apparently offer incoming students a guaranteed tuition level over some or all of their stay at Rice, could be brilliantly rethinking the philosophy behind college financing and a virtual windfall to students and their families.

One of the strongest arguments against tuition increases is that they squeeze the wallets of families who—perhaps naively, perhaps misguidedly—plan their budgets with the assumption that college costs will remain the same for four or five years. These families can potentially increase their "need-based" financial aid by altering another financial aid form each year, but their true need may not be met.

Families could also respond to tuition increases as they do to higher prices at the grocery store or gas station; by adjusting their consumption downward or switching suppliers. This is not an attractive option when the product is a college education, since each year of education is almost a guarantee for all involved. Students and their families will enjoy the security that a guaranteed annual fee would bring. In addition, the transition years might also cause problems, since immediate implementation would make the published Rice price shoot up dramatically for incoming freshmen.

If these difficulties can be tolerated or surmounted, a plan that guarantees more level tuition during students' years at Rice will be a net gain for all involved. Students and their families will enjoy the security of a guaranteed price, while Rice will have yet another unique selling point in its bid to attract top applicants.

To the editor: The last Thresher contained a letter from Joseph Elias claiming to "clearly" remark I had made in an article in a previous Thresher. As Joseph pointed out, the GSA does meet in larger, more accessible rooms. My original argument was that the GSA didn't really appreciate student input or constructive criticism. Mr. Elias' letter seems only to emphasize this point. Steven McGwire Physics

GA should not ignore criticism

"Clarification" shows lack of responsiveness from GSA's administrations

In the past, the GSA's administrations have handled student complaints on their own. But what happens when a complaint becomes public or when the GSA fails to respond to a request? What happens when the administration rejects a request?

The truth is, students wish the administration were more conscientious about their job. They wish the administration would respond? Whatever their motives, we all see a curricular aspect to the pass/fail option: students around fast enough to make us believe nobody is in charge, with the result that the administration and the student body stay the same. Win-Win Scenario from 25-A. This is where there are things that are not so bad, there are things that are good, and there are things that are not so bad at the same time.

It only makes sense that since students are buying a complete product and paying the price, they should be able to be taken in or out of a program at any stage. Students and their families will enjoy the security that a guaranteed annual fee would bring. In addition, the transition years might also cause problems, since immediate implementation would make the published Rice price shoot up dramatically for incoming freshmen.

If these difficulties can be tolerated or surmounted, a plan that guarantees more level tuition during students' years at Rice will be a net gain for all involved. Students and their families will enjoy the security of a guaranteed price, while Rice will have yet another unique selling point in its bid to attract top applicants.
Snapple: how many uses can you come up with for it?

Jym Schwartz

It has been thousands of years since humans were born with a kind of instinct whatsoever. We come into this world naked, so to speak, pretty damn stupid.

That said, there is nothing to do with an instinct except to say that we are born without either, which leaves the question of whether purpose or defense in the grand scheme of things.

Of course, like any statement in this issue, this is a big lie. Humans are born with a single is-

Diversity debate is needed on campus

To the editor:

The letter in the Nov. 5 edition on faculty diversity is an example of responding to an extreme view with an equally naive, though, for Mr. Moore, dressed this issue repeatedly, I know that continuing to be dominated by white males).

The question for Rice and other universities is whether the candidate of Rice would find suitable to hire. Hiring a more diverse faculty erode research and the list of those Rice would find suitable to hire. Hiring a more diverse faculty erode research and scholarship? Unfortunately, you’ll never know the answer unless you divine for yourself what research would have been conducted by the people you didn’t hire.

Diversity works, and it is the future, whether the Mr. Howley of the world agree with it or not. However, diversity also has consequences, as does rejecting diversity and maintaining the status quo. Only actively debate within the Rice University community will determine the proper answer for this particular school.

Harry A. Curtis

SECOND TO NONE Retail Shop

benefiting the Houston Area Women’s Center

1435 Westheimer (“on the Curve”) 528-1062.

Hours: Tuesday - Saturday 10-4 Thursday 10-7

Great clothes, low prices!

OPINION

The Rice Thresher FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1993

Snapple coffee & tea

Where coffee is an art not an afterthought

SPECIALTY COFFEE & TEA • CAPPUCCINO • ESPRESSO ICED COFFEE & TEA • PASTRIES • ATMOSPHERE 4321 Montrose Blvd. • 521-2002 (1 block S. of Richmond) Mon-Th 7-11 • Fri-Sat 7-12 • Sat 8-12 • Sun 8-11

BUY ONE BEVERAGE, GET ONE FREE

Expires Jan. 1, 1994

DEC. 8, 9, 10, & 12 WE’RE OPEN TILL 3AM!!!

FREE COFFEE & SCRUMPIOUS SNACK TREATS GIVEN OUT AT 11PM & 1AM!
Are you lonely and romantic?
Are you seriously searching for love?
Do the people around you at school seem dull, complacent, unromantic, and pack-oriented?
Have you been disappointed in your hope to find someone you could love?

The Happy Few.
can send you self-descriptive essays written by intelligent people who are, like you, longing for something more.
You decide whom to contact.

Also open to gays. Membership $20 per year.

For free information, write to:
The Happy Few
Dept. RT, Box 382805
Cambridge, MA 02238

Double submission violates honor code at universities

Sam Cole

Since the publication of the book entitled "Academic Fraud and the Honor System," there has been some confusion about the rules regarding the multiple submission of papers. It is considered academic fraud to "resubmit[...] any work [...] that has been used in identical or similar form in fulfillment of any academic requirement at this or another institution [...] without prior permission from the professor." (The Honor Council, "Academic Fraud and the Honor System," Houston: Rice University, 1993, p. 4). Rewrites of old essays or concurrent submissions are valid if and only if both instructors give permission (5).

This is not a new rule; nor is it one that the Honor Council at Rice made up in the distant past. Although this is the first time this rule has been written down at Rice, it has long been part of the established rules of scholarship that govern the academic life at institutions of higher learning, not something unique to Rice. By publishing "Academic Fraud and the Honor System," the Honor Council is attempting to clarify correct procedure as well as make such information more accessible to the student body.

Double-dipping for credit violates the standard assumptions used by professors when assigning work. Without prior approval, the implicit assumption is that the work submitted for credit is done for the purposes of the assignment and has not been done for another course. The system of credit hours is based on the premise that additional credit requires additional thought and work. However, the professor of the class sets any and all policy for his or her class. What is allowed is up to him or her.

When publishing work in scholarly journals, for example, it is considered wrong to submit an article even in a revised state to a second journal for publication without clearly informing the journal that the article has been previously published. Similarly, it is wrong to concurrently submit an unpublished article to two or more journals without informing the journals that one is doing so.

A separate but related issue is resubmitting old papers involving previously-written computer code. Some professors would not consider it appropriate to reuse old code in an assignment. It is therefore advisable to check with the professor of the class to clarify his or her rules regarding such use. As in all forms of intellectual property, code must be properly documented to give credit to the author.

The Honor Council encourages comment on this as well as all issues. Please address questions or comments to Honor Council at the Office of the Dean of Students, contact an Honor Council member, or come to an Open Meeting. Electronically, write to honor-council@rice.edu or post to rice.honor-council.

Sam Cole is a Lovett College junior and a member of the Honor Council.

So, you're in desperate need of a computer but you're totally broke until after the new year.

Happy Holidays.

Introducing the new Apple Computer Loan.
Now qualified applicants can get any select Macintosh or PowerBook with no money down and no payments for 90 days. (You could qualify with a phone call, but must apply by January 28, 1994.) It's all part of the new Apple Computer Loan. And, for a limited time, seven incredibly useful software programs will be included all for one low price. So, celebrate this season with a brand-new Macintosh or PowerBook computer. It does more. It costs less. It's that simple.

Introducing The New Apple Computer Loan

Visit your Apple Campus Reseller for more information.

Rice Campus Store, located in the Rice Memorial Center
6100 So. Main Street or call 527-4052
Jones reacts to controversial ritual

by Michael Nienhuis

Jones College is considering amending its constitution in response to a controversy over a ritual that occurred this year by several college members. In "Midnight Madness," the men of Jones' west wing third floor threw women into showers on the night of the first Physics 101, Math 101 chemistry 101 exam, according to Jones sophomore Rick Lopez.

Marty Mulakowski, a Jones junior, said last year Midnight Madness did not happen because of the intervention of several upperclassmen.

This year, several seniors protested the tradition, prompting college discussion forums and an attempt to propose a amendment Jones constitution.

Three amendments are under revision but will be resubmitted to the Jones Cabinet for review and discussion by college members. A referendum will take place sometime this spring.

The first of the three proposed amendments emphasizes that Jones members implicitly "belong to a community" in which "established rules of decorum based upon consensual agreement are fundamental for achieving smooth community relations.

It also stresses college support for university policy on sexual harassment and assault.

"This is what we must address," he said, in saying that although it is obvious to college that we are under the rules of the university, "consensus" and "employers" we must agree.

Jones President Audrey Chian, by putting explicitly into our constitution, it's pretty much, gives the college the power to act. If some sort of incident should occur, a person could come to the college government and bring it up within the college first without having to go to the university if they didn't want to.

The second proposal was drafted by Lopez and freshman Will KU, from whom whom of live on the third south wing.

"The second proposal is a blanket on, everyone, and not just concerning sexual harassment," Lopez said.

The whole conflict right now within the college is whether or not the amendment needs to address specifically the aspect of sexual harassment as opposed to addressing any other form of discrimination or harassment. What we were interested in doing is protecting everyone's rights.

Lopez said the first proposal attempts to label Midnight Madness as sexual harassment, "which doesn't accomplish anything."

"I don't think anybody at Jones has come up with a clear consensus on an actual definition of what sexual harassment is. That makes the whole thing of trying to solve the issue that much, much harder," he said.

A typical view of the Rice campus, it may not be so if the Facilities and Engineering department has its way.

Crime on campus

Accidental buildings

5:30 p.m. Nov. 22 - 4 p.m. Nov. 23

Colleges

Southbourn from 1:45 p.m. to 12:05 p.m.

Levy from 10:57 a.m. to 12 p.m.

McKale from 9 a.m. to 12:11 a.m.

Parking lots

2:36 p.m. to 3:25 p.m.

Unattended wallet stolen from unoccupied classroom

Locked bike taken from rack

Unattended backpack taken from public area

Money taken from wallet in unlocked room

Bike taken from public parking

Debit card used without authorization

Unattended jacket and wallet taken from public area

Vehicle stolen, later recovered in northeast Houston

SA Business

The Student Association Senate met Nov. 22. The following were discussed:

• Senate members have met with Dean Gurne to discuss tuition. Another meeting will be scheduled to continue the discussion, including food and housing costs as well.

• A study will be implemented to decide if the $250 currently provided by Financial Aid for books is sufficient for undergraduates on scholarship.

• Brown College Sen. John "Spades" Rosky replaces Jenna Crenshaw, who resigned her position to study abroad in the spring.

• The resolution on tuition was passed 15-4. SA President John Farnham will discuss the issue Monday with President Malcolm Gillis before he meets with the Board of Governors on Tuesday.

• The Senate is working on a Riceinfo account to provide general Senate information to the student body.

• Funds for a new SA office computer were approved 19-1.

Next meeting: Monday at 10 a.m. in the Ley Student Center's Kelley Lounge.

— compiled by Andrew Coulston
Texas A&M faculty support multiculturalism requirement

by Melissa Williams

All Texas A&M University students would be required to take courses in international and U.S. minority studies under a proposal approved by the faculty. The plan would delay students' graduation or lead to racial discrimination.

Note: This is a practice run of the Houston Chronicle.

"The bottom line is, the plan is a Draconian restriction of course selection," said political science professor David Thoreau, who also taught the liberal arts courses.

"It's just a way to make the College Station university attractive to faculty," said Senate President Richard Stadelmann, senate parliamentarian and a professor of philosophy who also taught the liberal arts courses.

"Last month, he was disconnected from Internet by UT, where he is a graduate student in engineering. The university said his messages were out of order from educational purposes.

"I am trying to live in a normal, democratic society," the Ukrainian President Boris Yeltsin and Ukrainian President Leonid Kravchuk.

"I wanted to be able to go to a computer center and take the GRE on any of several dates during the week, for a total of more than 150 a year."
Jones Truscott said. Since Brown has seven years that there might not be enough for $30,000 to $60,000 per facility.

"Midnight Madness" will be taken out according to Chun, references to the tradition itself is dead," he said. "I don't think people are aware that there is some sort of a long, students see it as an invasion of personal considerations and respect for college members are observed.

The challenging curriculum covers all major areas of finance, with an emphasis on applied research and modeling, as well as international and regulatory dimensions. Courses are taught by internationally recognized full-time faculty.

A Valuable Network of Peers
Many students in the MSF program are already successful professionals who seek to enhance their knowledge, develop professional skills, and increase their value to employers.

A Convenient Schedule
MSF classes are held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, so you can have the option of working an internship or part-time job while you study. Faculty are available in your local professional opportunities.

Gain the Competitive Edge for a Career in Finance with GW's Master of Science in Finance

A Focused Degree
The intense MSF program builds upon prior degrees in business, economics and other quantitative disciplines. With an emphasis on depth specialization in financial theory and management as it is available through MBA programs.

A Fast Track
You can complete your degree in one calendar year full-time or two years part-time.

A Key Location
GW's School of Business and Public Management is located next door to the World Bank and International Monetary Fund, and close to the Federal Reserve, the U.S. Treasury Department and major financial market regulatory agencies.

Early admission decisions will be made March 1, 1993. Remaining admission is on a rolling basis. Students are advised to apply early.

For more information on GW's Master of Science in Finance, call (202)994-5996. Or complete and return the coupon, below.

Advanced Curriculum
The challenging curriculum covers all major areas of finance, with an emphasis on applied research and modeling, as well as international and regulatory dimensions. Courses are taught by internationally recognized full-time faculty.

A Valuable Network of Peers
Many students in the MSF program are already successful professionals who seek to enhance their knowledge, develop professional skills, and increase their value to employers.

A Convenient Schedule
MSF classes are held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, so you can have the option of working an internship or part-time job while you study. Faculty are available in your local professional opportunities.

Gain the Competitive Edge for a Career in Finance with GW's Master of Science in Finance

A Focused Degree
The intense MSF program builds upon prior degrees in business, economics and other quantitative disciplines. With an emphasis on depth specialization in financial theory and management as it is available through MBA programs.

A Fast Track
You can complete your degree in one calendar year full-time or two years part-time.

A Key Location
GW's School of Business and Public Management is located next door to the World Bank and International Monetary Fund, and close to the Federal Reserve, the U.S. Treasury Department and major financial market regulatory agencies.

Early admission decisions will be made March 1, 1993. Remaining admission is on a rolling basis. Students are advised to apply early.

For more information on GW's Master of Science in Finance, call (202)994-5996. Or complete and return the coupon, below.
HOLIDAY READS

You've got the time — relax with a read

By arin Kross and Darren Glass

It's a good thing writers like Margaret Atwood exist. She is remarkable in that all her works, prose and poetry alike, are consistently good. Her newest, The Robber Bride, is no exception; it is smart, funny and one of her best to date.

The Robber Bride is the story of a female murder victim in an arche-nemesis type of novel. Tony (short for Antonio, an Israeli-born feminist who has been least scathed of all the characters) is married to a woman called Karen, a new-age earth mother who seems at first merely batty but is in fact truly psychical. Finally, there is Ross, founding editor of bisexual women's magazine called WarHorse World, whose brain holds the key to the mystery.

Looming over these three women is Zenia, who drives the novel. She is a character of towering, relentless evil who worms her way into the lives of all three women by playing on their hopes, fears and weaknesses. Over the years, she takes, or tries to take, husbands, boyfriends and careers. Elaine and Karen, however, slip in as out of identities as easily changing clothes as the novel opens. The three friends are having lunch at a restaurant called the Toxique, on Commerce Street. They are so engrossed in the storyline. They are convinced that Zenia is dead; in fact, they attended her funeral five years previously. But then she walks in, very much alive — and she has returned with a vengeance. Atwood restores the clashing characters of Zenia, Tony and Ross to their former prominence and also captures the voices of all of her characters. The novel is intelligent and written with great artistry on western literature. The title itself is a twist on the characters' names. This relationship to fairy tales allows Atwood to get away with a character like Zenia. She inescapably, cleverly pulls it out of a way that few characters are these days, and she utterly lacks anything like a clear motive. But that's okay, because in the tradition from which she comes, that of the wicked stepmother, the bad fairy godmother and Lady Macbeth, that is their signature, that is a sign of their being. This is a marvellously rich novel, very readable and entertaining. It is not to be missed.

— K.K.

MOVIE REVIEW

Mrs. Doubtfire 's 'Double' 's, cooks, cleans and entertains

By Kristin Linn

Any movie that begins with Robin Williams singing "Larger Than Life" from Rossini's The Barber of Seville is promising, and the intelligent use of words is considered. So begins Mrs. Doubtfire, a comedy that's at its best when it's trying to be serious.

Daniel Hillard (Williams) is an actor whose kids, during his divorce, are brimming with curiosity and imagination of their own. But Daniel (like many of his other film roles) is the embodiment of the sensitive man of the '90s. This is Hollywood. It's a good thing writers like Margaret Atwood exist. She is remarkable in that all her works, prose and poetry alike, are consistently good. Her newest, The Robber Bride, is no exception; it is smart, funny and one of her best to date.

Daniel's other film role is the same as his other film roles — he's a father who just wants to be with his kids, and he's a lot like many If you're a Hawking groupie I probably wouldn't recommend it, because you know that the dead time allows you to reflect on the many flaws in the script.

Overall, I enjoyed reading the book. Unless you're a Hawking groupie I probably wouldn't recommend it, because you know that the dead time allows you to reflect on the many flaws in the script.

— D.G.
Piano’ played superbly by Keitel, Hunter

BY ABBEY ADEL

Last weekend, five usually boisterous Rice students went to the movies. They emerged and rode home in silence. A sudden attack of laryngitis? No, The Piano had left them speechless.

Director Jane Campbell deserves the top prize that she won last May at the Cannes Film Festival for The Piano, a wildly beautiful and haunting love story set in the New Zealand bush in 1850. Wayne and Garth dismissed the film as haunting, a love story set in the New Zealand bush. However, she and her lover feel is tangible, and when Stewart arrives and refuses to drag the piano through the New Zealand bush to his home. But later he sells it to another European settler, Balint (Harvey Keitel). Ada is furious, but later realises a deal with Balint: he'll better the piano — key by key — for lessons that have much less to do with music than with the piano itself.

Their lessons grow more and more daring, and the lessons Balint gives her are marvellous. The frustration she and her lover feel is tangible, and when Stewart discovers their relationship, his obsession becomes apparent. In a moment of furious jealousy, he barter the piano back — key by key — for the exotic, passionate story to come.

The true brilliance of Zambodia lies not in the musical score but the exotic, passionate story to come. The score for an opera where everyone punishes Ada in the most horrifying way imaginable. With passionate direction and a haunting score, The Piano also gains power through its talented cast. Holly Hunter is spectacular, even as Balint, who is a remarkable and wicked lover. Minus her traditions, her eyes become piercing messages of her condition. Even more impressive are her fingertips — Hunter plays all of Ada's beautiful musical score.

The movie consists of six short films from the U.S., Canada, Australia and England, and topics, range from the ‘bad, bad’ boys of the disco ‘70s to a man awaiting his AIDS blood test results. At 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., tomorrow at the GloBay open house, 3-5 p.m. today.

And believe it or not, that’s about all, folks. Let a primal scream loose once or twice, do a stout at the Gingerman, drive carefully and have a good break.

Some music out there these days is unsettling. Sonic Youth and Cop Shoot Cop disturb me — the little twitch I get listening to their music is part of the reason I like 'em. However, as disturbing as a band gets, there’s a distinction between “disturbing” music and downright frightening music. Zambodia falls in the latter category.

Music is part of the reason I like ’em. However, as disturbing as a band gets, there’s a distinction between “disturbing” music and downright frightening music. Zambodia falls in the latter category.

The whole thing has a very orchestral feel to it, mostly because of the orchestra. The drumming and rhythm is a dominant element — nearly every song has at least a bit of intense, rhythmic pounding. In a few spots, the click-click percussion reminds me of boxes knocking together. It’s a very spooky sound. As an ensemble, this demonic bunch plays music drawn from some strange sources. There are hints of the Middle East, gypsies, Turkey, Africa and the Middle East. As an ensemble, this demonic bunch plays music drawn from some strange sources. There are hints of the Middle East, gypsies, Turkey, Africa and the Middle East. As an ensemble, this demonic bunch plays music drawn from some strange sources. There are hints of the Middle East, gypsies, Turkey, Africa and the Middle East.

The true brilliance of Zambodia lies not in the music, but in the sick nightmares Ouzenet weaves with his lyrics. Each song with a story, and while it’s impossible to understand him at some points, the little bits I can catch through his snarling, threatening vocals make me wonder if I really want to know what he’s talking about.

The subject of these songs are truly bizarre. For example, “My Sweet Militar” is a love song written for a nuclear missile; “Blaster Heart Incident” is about a woman who draws her child (tickle) and “Demon Erotics” has something to do with cricket men facing crushed.

Zambodia is a musical, majestic dirge, sung by a person (?) longing to return to his home, the mythical land of Zambodia. With This New Queer Cinema tonight and tomorrow for the low low price of $5. The movie consists of six short films from the U.S., Canada, Australia and England, and topics range from the “bad, bad” boys of the disco ‘70s to a man awaiting his AIDS blood test results. At 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., tomorrow at the GloBay open house, 3-5 p.m. today.

And believe it or not, that’s about all, folks. Let a primal scream loose once or twice, do a stout at the Gingerman, drive carefully and have a good break.
ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Best albums of ’93 as we pick ’em

BY BOOTH BACCOCK

Barlow人心——”Committed” (American). Barlow’s combination of seemingly unmotivated sounds and loud, edgy music isn’t for everyone, but once one gets into the music, it is hard to get out.

The Boredoms——”Pop Tarts” (Reprise). The Boredoms produce an unpredictable, random collection of noises that often fall somewhere outside the spectrum we Americans like to call music. Impossible to record if this is an homage to or a joke at the expense of rock music.

Caspar Brummenn Mauzecker——”Kokofyn” (Horseshoe). Kokofyn apparently means “blast furnace.” I can think of no more appropriate title for this exploration into what kinds of amazing noises can be wrung out of a guitar.

Cop Shoot Cop——”Ask Questions Later” (Interscope). Cop Shoot Cop has enough attitude for all of their native Brooklyn. As the novelty of their two-bass, no guitar lineup has faded, the band has used their third album to demonstrate a greater range of talent and the ability to write songs that are extremely catchy, though still aggressive as hell.

The Flaming Lips——”Transmissions” from the Satellite Heart (WILL). Possibly the catchiest bunch of songs anywhere should ever have in their ears to The Flaming Lips merrily skronk along in the wandering, drug-addled manner we all know and love.

The Goats——”Tricks of the Trade” (Columbia). The Goats are, next to Cypress Hill, the best dope-smoking hip-hop group around. One listen to Tricks of the Trade should make you forget about Snoop and his um, legal problems.

My Name——”Fat Hogs and Big Wheels” (C/Z). My Name easily lost much of its schizophrenic, genre-bending charm with this release, but what remains is finely honed punk and funk-tinged rock. Also impressive are singer Abe Hreinn’s frequently poetic lyrics.

NoMeansNo——”Why Do They Call Me Mr. Happy” (Alternative Territorial). The go-to prog-rock strike again. That these guys belong in the Canadian hard-grooving authentic stadium rock and lounge: singing a try, but NoMeansNo remains one of the tightest, most amazing bands around.

Steel Pole Bathub——”The Miracle of Sound in Motion” (Roster). Noise, beautiful noise. SPB continues to refine the “wall of noise” sound with layers of distortion, samples and effects propelled through driving rhythms.

Tom Waits——”The Black Rider” (Island). The soundtrack to an opera by William Burroughs with Robert Wilson’s sets. The Black Rider may be the gravel-voiced singer’s most eclectic and disturbing release to date.

The Goats——”Fat Hogs and Big Wheels” (C/Z). The mania of this import sight unseen? Here’s who: anybody interested in a great post-punk noise guitar album. The best Petrols album in years. Perhaps ever.

Various Artists——”Sweet Relief” (Geffen). On the soundtrack to the year’s Big Cause, every band that matters shows why 1994 will be the year of Victoria Wilson.

Anderson——”My Name” (A&M). The best post-punk noise guitar album. The best Petrols album in years. Perhaps ever.

Jellyfish——”Spirit” (Matador). “Spirit feature” is the name of the game, but these guys steal from the Beatles, Queen, the Beach Boys and others so sketchily that it’s impossible not to smile and damn hard not to laugh.

The best concept album in years.

Aimee Mann——”(In) dance” (Interscope). Wordplay so inspired that each lyric sounds like it was meticulously crafted. Mann is placed at singing guitar pop and song is a voice that’s half crying, half joking. Makes you wonder if we should have ignored TV Tuesday all those years.

Chris Isaak——”San Francisco Days” (Reprise). More proof that simple language is the most profound.

Cop Shoot Cop—”Ask Questions Later” (Interscope). The band that was the Hype of the Year puts out the debut of the year by delivering on its promises. Bernard Butler’s multi-layered guitar riffs almost takes attention away from Brett Anderson’s tortured vocals and lyrics. Almost.

That Petrol Emotions——”Fireproof” (Koogat import). Who else but a totally rabid fan would shell out $22 for an import sight unseen? Here’s who: anybody interested in a great post-punk noise guitar album. The best Petrols album in years. Perhaps ever.

Various Artists——”Sweet Relief” (Geffen). On the soundtrack to the year’s Big Cause, every band that matters shows why 1994 will be the year of Victoria Wilson.

Amarillo ——”(In) dance” (Interscope). The best post-punk noise guitar album. The best Petrols album in years. Perhaps ever.

Jellyfish——”Spirit” (Matador). “Spirit feature” is the name of the game, but these guys steal from the Beatles, Queen, the Beach Boys and others so sketchily that it’s impossible not to smile and damn hard not to laugh.

The best concept album in years.

Aimee Mann——”(In) dance” (Interscope). Wordplay so inspired that each lyric sounds like it was meticulously crafted. Mann is placed at singing guitar pop and song is a voice that’s half crying, half joking. Makes you wonder if we should have ignored TV Tuesday all those years.

Chris Isaak——”San Francisco Days” (Reprise). More proof that simple language is the most profound.

Cop Shoot Cop—”Ask Questions Later” (Interscope). The band that was the Hype of the Year puts out the debut of the year by delivering on its promises. Bernard Butler’s multi-layered guitar riffs almost takes attention away from Brett Anderson’s tortured vocals and lyrics. Almost.

That Petrol Emotions——”Fireproof” (Koogat import). Who else but a totally rabid fan would shell out $22 for an import sight unseen? Here’s who: anybody interested in a great post-punk noise guitar album. The best Petrols album in years. Perhaps ever.

Various Artists——”Sweet Relief” (Geffen). On the soundtrack to the year’s Big Cause, every band that matters shows why 1994 will be the year of Victoria Wilson.

Amarillo ——”(In) dance” (Interscope). The best post-punk noise guitar album. The best Petrols album in years. Perhaps ever.

Jellyfish——”Spirit” (Matador). “Spirit feature” is the name of the game, but these guys steal from the Beatles, Queen, the Beach Boys and others so sketchily that it’s impossible not to smile and damn hard not to laugh.

The best concept album in years.

Aimee Mann——”(In) dance” (Interscope). Wordplay so inspired that each lyric sounds like it was meticulously crafted. Mann is placed at singing guitar pop and song is a voice that’s half crying, half joking. Makes you wonder if we should have ignored TV Tuesday all those years.

Chris Isaak——”San Francisco Days” (Reprise). More proof that simple language is the most profound.

Cop Shoot Cop—”Ask Questions Later” (Interscope). The band that was the Hype of the Year puts out the debut of the year by delivering on its promises. Bernard Butler’s multi-layered guitar riffs almost takes attention away from Brett Anderson’s tortured vocals and lyrics. Almost.

That Petrol Emotions——”Fireproof” (Koogat import). Who else but a totally rabid fan would shell out $22 for an import sight unseen? Here’s who: anybody interested in a great post-punk noise guitar album. The best Petrols album in years. Perhaps ever.

Various Artists——”Sweet Relief” (Geffen). On the soundtrack to the year’s Big Cause, every band that matters shows why 1994 will be the year of Victoria Wilson.

Amarillo ——”(In) dance” (Interscope). The best post-punk noise guitar album. The best Petrols album in years. Perhaps ever.

Jellyfish——”Spirit” (Matador). “Spirit feature” is the name of the game, but these guys steal from the Beatles, Queen, the Beach Boys and others so sketchily that it’s impossible not to smile and damn hard not to laugh.

The best concept album in years.
CLOSE
YOUR ACCOUNT WITH THE BANK OF DAD.

OKAY, SO YOU'RE NOT INDEPENDENTLY WEALTHY,
BUT YOU CAN BE INDEPENDENT. WITH DISCOVER® CARD
YOU GET A $1,000 CREDIT LINE, NO ANNUAL FEE AND WE DON'T CARE WHAT TIME YOU GET HOME.

IF YOU DON'T GET IT,
GET IT.
Rejuvenated basketball rocks with wins

by Jason Katz

The Rice men's basketball team has emerged from three regular season losses and one exhibition with a 2-1 record, recording Sam Houston State University 85-64 in their most recent game.

Tyres led the team with a career-high 21 points. The Owls were leaders against the 19th-ranked University of Mississippi Golden Gophers in their season opener on November 18. As in last season's game against the top 15 University of Michigan Wolverines, the Owls pushed their opponents at the limit before falling short at the end of the contest.

Rice trailed the Golden Gophers 26-22 at halftime, but came out strong to open the second half. They quickly erased the score 46-40.

The Owls remained within striking distance throughout the entire contest as Minnesota tried to pull away. With 36 seconds remaining in the game, Rice forward Adam Praker, who led Rice with 36 points, hit a three-pointer to narrow the lead to 60-57. The Owls then pushed the ball downcourt for the final score, 60-57.

With limited time remaining, the Owls were forced to double quick. The Golden Gophers showed poise, however, hitting all but one of their free throws to down Rice by a final score of 70-64.

"We put ourselves in the position to win the game at the end," said Rice forward Scott Tyler. "That is important to us."

After bowing out of the single elimination National Invitational Tournament, December 3, 1993, the Owls are 2-1 record, trouncing Sam Houston State University 85-64 in their season opener on November 18. As in last season's game against the top 15 University of Michigan Wolverines, the Owls pushed their opponents at the limit before falling short at the end of the contest.

Rice led the team with a career-high 21 points. Tyres led the Owls on a 31-7 run for the rest of the contest to capture the win, 70-64.

With Andrews and Praker combining for 40 points, Rice was able to hold off Nevada in the second half to capture their first regular-season victory, 74-64. This win increased the Owls' home winning streak versus Nevada to 10 games.

"Without a question, this was a win we needed," Wilson said. "Number one, you have to win at home. (Nevada) threw some wrinkles that we hadn't seen on film with a zone defense, but it was something that we thought we might use. I was pleased with how we made the adjustments."

Unfortunately for the Owls, however, their shooting woes continued from the free throw line. Rice missed all of their shots in the first half and finished the game with 40 percent from the field.

"Our two-three zone has been very disappointing," Wilson said, "but we will keep working on it."

Rice will face the University of Virginia in Charlottesville on Dec. 4. The Cavaliers, a top-20 team in all major collegiate basketball polls, are members of the Atlantic Coast Conference, arguably the nation's most important conference.

"We've disappointed that we didn't get to conference win, but we're reeling," Chen said. "I think that for us most important thing is what we're going to do the right direction."

Three Rice seniors, setter Jessica Stewart, outside hitter Michelle Bird and Falan, combined their college career with this. "I thought this year was going to be a turnaround year," Williams said. "We need to rally ourselves at this time. Everyone in the conference is better than us, it's hard to cross over the barrier."

The Owls' 12-game conference losing streak provides a major obstacle to their resurgence in the SWC. "We have lots of goals (but) we have them set for ourselves, and we know they will come true," Chen said. "It would be a tremendous 3-10 to win a SWC game and a major shot of confidence."

Although the Owls did not fare well in conference play, the contributions and individual talents of some players did not escape the notice of their opponents. "Nevada lost to the Owls 70-64, 6-3. We played pretty good defensive game," McKinney said. "Texas Southern is not a good shooting team. Their strength is on the offensive boards. Our initial defense was good, but our rebounding was not."

"It lost to the Rina Basketball Club, a touring club from Lithuania, 62-59 at Autry Court Nov. 11. With the Owls leading 38-21 early in the second half, Rina went on a 36-13 run to pull out the win.

Garciade Paul-Christian with 11 points while Pronti added 10 points. Smith and Conaway pulled down nine rebounds.

Junior Candace Lessmeister, the third Owl finisher, crossed the finish line within eight seconds of Swank.

According to Eklof, running together in the race benefited the three Owls, who had competed against 230 runners on the course earlier in the year.

"It shows that people think highly of us despite our record," Chen said. "I think that the most important thing is that we're going in the right direction."

The Owls maintained a 50 percent shooting percentage and held the Lady Tigers to 26.3 percent. This enabled Rice to outscore the Lady Tigers 41-17 in the second half.

With five players in double figures, Rice outscored the Lady Tigers 36-13 in the second half. "We had offensive balance. We also had good play from off our bench," McKinney said.

"It's what we have been working on," McKinney said. "We are learning to play hard for 60 minutes. We have to be careful not to lose intensity."

"On Saturday, we were able to maintain our intensity much better than before," she added. "The Owls are as good as it can be, but it is getting better."

"We need for a game like tonight," McKinney said. "It's what we have been working on, and our guys didn't really perform like we've normally seen our team's play against Marathon Oil, in some of our losses. This was a difficult game to play," McKinney said.

"It just shows that people think highly of us despite our record," Chen said. "I think that's what we have been working on, and we're close."

With the Owls leading 38-21 early in the second half, Rina went on a 36-13 run to pull out the win.

Garciade Paul-Christian with 11 points while Pronti added 10 points. Smith and Conaway pulled down nine rebounds.

Junior Candace Lessmeister, the third Owl finisher, crossed the finish line within eight seconds of Swank.

According to Eklof, running together in the race benefited the three Owls, who had competed against 230 runners on the course earlier in the year.

"It shows that people think highly of us despite our record," Chen said. "I think that the most important thing is that we're going in the right direction."

The Owls maintained a 50 percent shooting percentage and held the Lady Tigers to 26.3 percent. This enabled Rice to outscore the Lady Tigers 41-17 in the second half.

With five players in double figures, Rice outscored the Lady Tigers 36-13 in the second half. "We had offensive balance. We also had good play from off our bench," McKinney said.

"It's what we have been working on," McKinney said. "We are learning to play hard for 60 minutes. We have to be careful not to lose intensity."

"On Saturday, we were able to maintain our intensity much better than before," she added. "The Owls are as good as it can be, but it is getting better."

"We need for a game like tonight," McKinney said. "It's what we have been working on, and our guys didn't really perform like we've normally seen our team's play against Marathon Oil, in some of our losses. This was a difficult game to play," McKinney said.

"It just shows that people think highly of us despite our record," Chen said. "I think that's what we have been working on, and we're close."

With the Owls leading 38-21 early in the second half, Rina went on a 36-13 run to pull out the win.

Garciade Paul-Christian with 11 points while Pronti added 10 points. Smith and Conaway pulled down nine rebounds.

Junior Candace Lessmeister, the third Owl finisher, crossed the finish line within eight seconds of Swank.

According to Eklof, running together in the race benefited the three Owls, who had competed against 230 runners on the course earlier in the year.

"It shows that people think highly of us despite our record," Chen said. "I think that the most important thing is that we're going in the right direction."

The Owls maintained a 50 percent shooting percentage and held the Lady Tigers to 26.3 percent. This enabled Rice to outscore the Lady Tigers 41-17 in the second half.

With five players in double figures, Rice outscored the Lady Tigers 36-13 in the second half. "We had offensive balance. We also had good play from off our bench," McKinney said.

"It's what we have been working on," McKinney said. "We are learning to play hard for 60 minutes. We have to be careful not to lose intensity."

"On Saturday, we were able to maintain our intensity much better than before," she added. "The Owls are as good as it can be, but it is getting better."

"We need for a game like tonight," McKinney said. "It's what we have been working on, and our guys didn't really perform like we've normally seen our team's play against Marathon Oil, in some of our losses. This was a difficult game to play," McKinney said.

"It just shows that people think highly of us despite our record," Chen said. "I think that's what we have been working on, and we're close."

With the Owls leading 38-21 early in the second half, Rina went on a 36-13 run to pull out the win.

Garciade Paul-Christian with 11 points while Pronti added 10 points. Smith and Conaway pulled down nine rebounds.

Junior Candace Lessmeister, the third Owl finisher, crossed the finish line within eight seconds of Swank.
Running back Byron Coston fights off the Cougars for one of the Owls' many runs of the game.

Owls wrap up 6-5 season with win

By Jason Katz

The Rice football team capitalized on eight University of Houston turnovers to win the Comerica Bayou Bucket 31-7 Nov. 25 and capture their second consecutive winning season.

With this win, Rice finished the season with a 6-5 record and posted their first back-to-back winning season since 1980-81. They also won the Bayou Bucket, the prize awarded to the winner of this annual gridiron match, for the first time since 1986.

After Houston's first offensive series, it seemed that this year would be no different. The Cougars marched down field for 72 yards and capped off the drive with a 44-yard punt from running back Tavion Sanders.

"Everyone on the defense thought we were pretty flat in the first series," said Rice safety Nathan Bennett. "We missed a few key tackles that gave them some big yards. We'll have to just settle down, we'll have no problem.*

* The Owls did settle down and answered with a well-constructed 76-yard scoring drive of their own.

On their first play from scrimmage, Rice wide receiver Jimmy Lee broke through a confused Houston defense on a reverse play. Lee raced down the field for 50 yards before being tackled at the Houston 26-yard line.

Five plays later, quarterback Bert Emanuel connected with running back Byron Coston for a 19-yard touchdown reception, tying the game at 7.

"I was going over some stuff with the defense, when I heard the roar of the crowd and saw Lee run the other way with the football," said Rice coach Fred Goldsmith. "I knew then that we'd be right back in the game."

Emanuel connected with Coston for a 31-yard touchdown reception, Rice took a 14-7 lead into the second quarter.

The second quarter against Houston was perhaps Rice's most effective of the season. The Owls capitalized on one interception and one fumble recovery to add 14 more points to their lead over the Cougars.

With the ball, Scott led the Owls on an 80-yard scoring drive, culminating with an 8-yard touchdown pass from Scott to Bennett. With the extra point through a confused Houston defense, the Owls took a 21-7 lead into halftime.

"This team has as much talent as any other team I've coached," so if we don't play to our potential, we can play with any other," said Bennett. "We're going to work on each aspect of our game, but not actually play in any tournaments."

Despite the inconsistent fall season, the team morale is still high. "Over the break we'll do some weight lifting, but I'm burnout so I'll try not to hit any balls during the winter," Lawrence said.

"We don't practice as a team until mid-January, so now we can fine-tune our games," Scott said. "But this season has a lot to be proud of."

"It was a good year for us," Goldsmith said. "We had some goals at the beginning of the year that we didn't meet but, at the same time, we've accomplished a lot. I'm pleased that we have one of three teams in this conference with winning records. Our back to back winning seasons show something for the stability of the program."
Rice swimmers split dual meet with Miami

by Eric Rutherford

The Rice women's swim team defeated a talented University of Miami team Nov. 19, while the Rice men's team came up six points short of victory.

The Rice women took the dual meet in their first home competition of the season by a score of 132-76, while the Rice men lost, 105-99.

Armed of freshmen, Ginny Farmer, Cori Miller and Anjali Upadhyaya, the Rice women, according to Coach Kris Wingenroth, are "a trio of freshmen, Ginny Farmer, Cori Miller and Annie Luikens, led the Rice women to earn this distinction.

Rice's junior Ryan Gravelle, freshman Jon Armstrong placed second and third respectively in that event. The meet came down to the 400 freestyle relay. The Rice A team, consisting of freshmen Justin Wong, Wagner, sophomore Brent Hasbrouck and Armstrong, led through most of the event. At the start of the last leg of the relay, the Owls were a body length and a half ahead of Miami.

The Owls recorded three first-place finishes, nine second-place finishes and five third-place finishes in the 11 events.

After maintaining a small lead for most of the meet, the men were beaten by a 1 point after the 500 freestyle. The Owls trailed the Hurricanes by a single point after the 200 breaststroke.

Sophomore Chistie Mjael and freshman Jon Armstrong placed second and third respectively in that event. The meet came down to the 400 freestyle relay. The Rice A team, consisting of freshmen Justin Wong, Wagner, sophomore Brent Hasbrouck and Armstrong, led through most of the event.

The Rice men stayed in the meet as the best performance by the Owls men he has seen since he has been at Rice.

Senior Kurt Wagner described the Rice men have "developed a lot of depth this year and now is a good omen for the end of the season. We are still growing and success over into the next semester. "We have a lot of good training left," Wingenroth said.

"The fact that we are swimming well now is a good sign for us to win the meet, "Wingenroth said. "The Owls are hoping to carry their success over into the next semester. We have a lot of good training left," Wingenroth said.

Randy Block vs. Ken Stanley

Orange Bowl Florida State vs. Nebraska

Fiesta Bowl Miami vs. Arizona

Cotton Bowl Texas A&M vs. Notre Dame

Rose Bowl UCLA vs. Wisconsin

---

SPORTS TRIVIA

1. The Huskers claim that they have been underestimated. After all, they did beat Texas Tech, the SWC's #2 team. Sorry, Husker faithful, you got your chances to see the Cornhuskers in this game since they really won the Southwest Conference. But instead we get a match-up from last year. This could get scary quickly.

2. Nebraska will plead "defensive Champs) went to the Cotton Bowl instead. The Badgers play in this game since Wisconsin is the first time in years that Miami has lost twice in one season. Arizona has a better defense, better uniforms, and more women. Enter this in your system, this will definitely be a great game. Miami 32-21.

3. This year than in the past 18 years combined. Arizona almost beat Miami last year so this should be a fun match-up. It's part of my religion to not pick against Miami, so I'll take them by eight.

4. The Irish beat FSU. The Aggies can pass. This could get scary quickly. The Irish beat FSU. The Aggies can pass. The Huskers claim that they have been underestimated. After all, they did beat Texas Tech, the SWC's #2 team. Sorry, Husker faithful, you got your chances to see the Cornhuskers in this game since they really won the Southwest Conference. But instead we get a match-up from last year. This could get scary quickly.

---

ERINE'S ON BANKS

1010 Banks • Houston, Texas 77006 • 713/526-4566
Near Corner of Montrose and Banks-Across from Bell Park

Welcome Rice Owls

"Challenge Your Gray Matter"

FEATURING:

QB1

BRAIN BUSTER

SPORTS TRIVIA

Great Food • Domestic & Imported Beer
7 TV's • Darts • Pool • Foosball • Pinball for 21 and up

Rice Students and Staff Special

10% Discount on all Food

please present coupon and proper ID when placing order

FAIRFAX CRYOBANK

HEALTHY MALES WANTED AS SEMEN DONORS:
Fairfax Cryobank needs healthy young men as semen donors: Excellent compensation; Help Infertile Couples; Confidentiality Ensured; Ages 18 to 35; Call 799-9937

FAIRFAX CRYOBANK

HEALTHY MALES WANTED AS SEMEN DONORS:
Fairfax Cryobank needs healthy young men as semen donors: Excellent compensation; Help Infertile Couples; Confidentiality Ensured; Ages 18 to 35; Call 799-9937

---

SPORTS

SPORTS TRIVIA

1. The Huskers claim that they have been underestimated. After all, they did beat Texas Tech, the SWC's #2 team. Sorry, Husker faithful, you got your chances to see the Cornhuskers in this game since they really won the Southwest Conference. But instead we get a match-up from last year. This could get scary quickly. The Irish beat FSU. The Aggies can pass. This could get scary quickly. The Irish beat FSU. The Aggies can pass. The Huskers claim that they have been underestimated. After all, they did beat Texas Tech, the SWC's #2 team. Sorry, Husker faithful, you got your chances to see the Cornhuskers in this game since they really won the Southwest Conference. But instead we get a match-up from last year. This could get scary quickly.

2. Nebraska will plead "defensive Champs) went to the Cotton Bowl instead. The Badgers play in this game since Wisconsin is the first time in years that Miami has lost twice in one season. Arizona has a better defense, better uniforms, and more women. Enter this in your system, this will definitely be a great game. Miami 32-21.

3. This year than in the past 18 years combined. Arizona almost beat Miami last year so this should be a fun match-up. It's part of my religion to not pick against Miami, so I'll take them by eight.

4. The Irish beat FSU. The Aggies can pass. This could get scary quickly. The Irish beat FSU. The Aggies can pass. The Huskers claim that they have been underestimated. After all, they did beat Texas Tech, the SWC's #2 team. Sorry, Husker faithful, you got your chances to see the Cornhuskers in this game since they really won the Southwest Conference. But instead we get a match-up from last year. This could get scary quickly. The Irish beat FSU. The Aggies can pass. The Huskers claim that they have been underestimated. After all, they did beat Texas Tech, the SWC's #2 team. Sorry, Husker faithful, you got your chances to see the Cornhuskers in this game since they really won the Southwest Conference. But instead we get a match-up from last year. This could get scary quickly. The Irish beat FSU. The Aggies can pass.
Avenging Oilers redeem themselves and season with Steeler victory

by Chris Rodgers

Don't be surprised or scared if you see a couple of large fellows wearing yellow and blue uniforms with their tails between their legs. It's only the Steeler's, or you might say the Houston Oilers, after getting their butts whipped by the Pittsburgh Steelers in last year's AFC Championship game, which was completely humiliating Pittsburgh's offensive line was enough, enough for one night. Finally, Buddy Ryan's famed 46 defensive scheme is starting to pay big dividends for the Houston Oilers, and there's a heckuva lot to like about the results.

It's the type of defense that forces the Oilers' opponents to renege rather than to attack. The system stresses physical play and the creation of turnovers.

It may take players a while to learn all of the nuances of the complex assignments and formations of the defense, but when everything does come together the 46 is any NFL offense's worst nightmare. Ryan's defense has a nasty habit of pounding quarterback sacks and taking control of contests—just ask the Steelers.

Houston's defense gave up 234 total yards, created four turnovers and generated six quarterback sacks. More importantly, the Oilers' stingy defense politely sacked his backup quarterback Neil O'Donnell was sacked four times and was even taken out with a bruised shoulder.

Not wanting to show favoritism for one guest over another, the Oilers' defense politely sacked his backup, Mike Tomczak twice so he wouldn't feel left out of all the fun.

The official score for the game probably best count of how many times the Steelers quarterbacks were knocked down, hurled and hit some.

D surrendered three points all night. At times during the game, it appeared that Houston's defensive line was spending more time in the Steelers' backfield than the Pittsburgh running backs. Pittsburgh's starting running back Neil O'Donnell was sacked four times and was even taken out with a bruised shoulder. Not wanting to show favoritism for one guest over another, the Oilers' defense politely sacked his backup, Mike Tomczak twice so he wouldn't feel left out of all the fun.

The official scorer for the game probably best count of how many times the Steelers quarterbacks were knocked down, hurled and hit some.

Mr. Rodgers would like to know if you sports fans can spell "V-I-N-D-I-C-

Avenging Oilers redeem themselves and season with Steeler victory

Don't be surprised or scared if you see a couple of large fellows wearing yellow and blue uniforms with their tails between their legs. It's only the Steeler's, or you might say the Houston Oilers, after getting their butts whipped by the Pittsburgh Steelers in last year's AFC Championship game, which was completely humiliating Pittsburgh's offensive line was enough, enough for one night. Finally, Buddy Ryan's famed 46 defensive scheme is starting to pay big dividends for the Houston Oilers, and there's a heckuva lot to like about the results.

It's the type of defense that forces the Oilers' opponents to renege rather than to attack. The system stresses physical play and the creation of turnovers.

It may take players a while to learn all of the nuances of the complex assignments and formations of the defense, but when everything does come together the 46 is any NFL offense's worst nightmare. Ryan's defense has a nasty habit of pounding quarterback sacks and taking control of contests—just ask the Steelers.

Houston's defense gave up 234 total yards, created four turnovers and generated six quarterback sacks. More importantly, the Oilers' stingy defense politely sacked his backup quarterback Neil O'Donnell was sacked four times and was even taken out with a bruised shoulder. Not wanting to show favoritism for one guest over another, the Oilers' defense politely sacked his backup, Mike Tomczak twice so he wouldn't feel left out of all the fun.

The official score for the game probably best count of how many times the Steelers quarterbacks were knocked down, hurled and hit some.

D surrendered three points all night. At times during the game, it appeared that Houston's defensive line was spending more time in the Steelers' backfield than the Pittsburgh running backs. Pittsburgh's starting running back Neil O'Donnell was sacked four times and was even taken out with a bruised shoulder. Not wanting to show favoritism for one guest over another, the Oilers' defense politely sacked his backup, Mike Tomczak twice so he wouldn't feel left out of all the fun.

The official scorer for the game probably best count of how many times the Steelers quarterbacks were knocked down, hurled and hit some.

Mr. Rodgers would like to know if you sports fans can spell "V-I-N-D-I-C-

Avenging Oilers redeem themselves and season with Steeler victory

Don't be surprised or scared if you see a couple of large fellows wearing yellow and blue uniforms with their tails between their legs. It's only the Steeler's, or you might say the Houston Oilers, after getting their butts whipped by the Pittsburgh Steelers in last year's AFC Championship game, which was completely humiliating Pittsburgh's offensive line was enough, enough for one night. Finally, Buddy Ryan's famed 46 defensive scheme is starting to pay big dividends for the Houston Oilers, and there's a heckuva lot to like about the results.

It's the type of defense that forces the Oilers' opponents to renege rather than to attack. The system stresses physical play and the creation of turnovers.

It may take players a while to learn all of the nuances of the complex assignments and formations of the defense, but when everything does come together the 46 is any NFL offense's worst nightmare. Ryan's defense has a nasty habit of pounding quarterback sacks and taking control of contests—just ask the Steelers.

Houston's defense gave up 234 total yards, created four turnovers and generated six quarterback sacks. More importantly, the Oilers' stingy defense politely sacked his backup quarterback Neil O'Donnell was sacked four times and was even taken out with a bruised shoulder. Not wanting to show favoritism for one guest over another, the Oilers' defense politely sacked his backup, Mike Tomczak twice so he wouldn't feel left out of all the fun.

The official scorer for the game probably best count of how many times the Steelers quarterbacks were knocked down, hurled and hit some.

D surrendered three points all night. At times during the game, it appeared that Houston's defensive line was spending more time in the Steelers' backfield than the Pittsburgh running backs. Pittsburgh's starting running back Neil O'Donnell was sacked four times and was even taken out with a bruised shoulder. Not wanting to show favoritism for one guest over another, the Oilers' defense politely sacked his backup, Mike Tomczak twice so he wouldn't feel left out of all the fun.

The official scorer for the game probably best count of how many times the Steelers quarterbacks were knocked down, hurled and hit some.
post-charette missclass

Ever wonder what happens to your archi friends whilst you stuff your gullet with the poultry on Thanksgiving day and spend a relaxing weekend at home? His architecture has a name for - "Charet". This is a special specialty when sleep, family and friends are all sacrificed to further the cause of the architecture. Overawed, understated minds running on no sleep are far from dead, however. Here is a short collection of eloquent stories and quotes dedicated to Thanksgiving Weekend at Anderson 1993.

Q: Why doesn’t Santa have any kids?
A: Because he only comes once a year and even then it’s down the chimney.

Overheard in the ralas of the ABC Sports production crew of the rice Houston Football game:

"Yeah, we've got Rice-Houston here. It's a bunch of premed students against some guys out on parole.

From the male cheerleader who is a female cheerleader from his shoulders during a Rice basketball game:

"It’s all her fault."

The following is printed out of the fragile belief that somebody somewhere will be doubled over in laughter from reading it. I seriously doubt it.

Top Ten New Shows on M!

10.0 Welcome Back Caucuty
9.0 Sigma Pi Field of Dreams
8.0 Quasi Elite League
7.0 LA Law (X)
6.0 Laflare & Shirley
5.0 Late Night With Lebel
4.0 ABC’s Monday Night Und Ball
3.0 Beavis and Butel
2.0 Hilbert’s Place
1.0 Banach, 90210

Sir Blowiman Spewh by W.M.

Below is the story of someone I know, an elderly gentleman, Sir Blowiman Spewh.

Just speak the man’s name and that’s what he would do.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays he’d do three for two.

He hadn’t employment, but bore a small card that gave “Flutters” at 86, and “Like to work hard.”

His own country’s government, acting on greed, sought tax on his profit to screw him indeed.

When they reached the old fellow he feared they had reached out for they backed over his head such a slight blowman. Semi-marring his comfort set them at ease, especially one who contracted disease.

His guests paid their homage, and speech moved to follow. But a corpse? Speechless it was. Too hard to swallow.

Much thanks to a profligate and talented contributor. Your reputation is still intact.

Bumper sticker:

"Do as the animals do! Let all your children be born — eat the ones you don’t want."

From the Stall of Valhalla

Said the elephant to the man taling a piss on the Serengeti Plain, "How do you breathe through that thing?"

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

NEED CHRISTMAS CASH? Help graduate student author mail queries to potential publishers during Dec. or vacation. Must be computer literate & know how to merge documents in Word Perfect for Windows. Laser printer access encouraged. Salary $54.52/week. Call Bill at 785-8205.

FREEL, FURNISHED GARAGE APARTMENT, available after Dec. 1, exchange for rooming house (1 person occupied) once a week and occasionally taking care of cats and plants. Close to Rice 792-5287, day/night.

WORK-STUDY FOR SPRING TERM.

Art & Art History Slide Library needs dedicated work-study student for 4-8 hours per week for Spring semester. Learn about art, catalog and make contact with do’s. Call 813/64 or come by 421 Seabrook before the 4th week of Dec. MARIE.

PARK-TIME JOBS for exchange for a nice furnished, utilities paid, one person apartment, owned three boys, age 3-11, after school from 3 to 8 p.m. Walking distance to Rice. Start early January. Tom Taylor, 522-2046.

PERSON NEEDED TO LIVE in nice River Oaks garage apt. Free rent for approx. 25 hr. of helping-stirring, eating, playing, petting. Perfect for college student or 2 renters. References must be available upon request after 4th week of Dec. 213-6683. CLAUDEL.

CHILD-CARE PROVIDER In our home (Rice area). Take care of 17-month-old male. No experience desired, but not necessary. References supplied. 467-0804.

PERSON NEEDED TO LIVE in nice River Oaks garage apt. Free rent for approx. 25 hr. of helping-stirring, eating, playing, petting. Perfect for college student or 2 renters. References must be available upon request after 4th week of Dec. 213-6683. CLAUDEL.

A 1

• Perry Ellis • Nicole Miller • Chaps •

Bridesmaid Rental from $5921

• Prom Rental from $4921

• From $39- you can rent a tuxedo

• Bridesmaid Rental from $5921

• Prom Rental from $4921

• Perry Ellis • Nicole Miller • Chaps •

Below is the story of someone I know, an elderly gentleman, Sir Blowiman Spewh.

Just speak the man’s name and that’s what he would do.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays he’d do three for two.

He hadn’t employment, but bore a small card that gave “Flutters” at 86, and “Like to work hard.”

His own country’s government, acting on greed, sought tax on his profit to screw him indeed.

When they reached the old fellow he feared they had reached out for they backed over his head such a slight blowman. Semi-marring his comfort set them at ease, especially one who contracted disease.

His guests paid their homage, and speech moved to follow. But a corpse? Speechless it was. Too hard to swallow.

Much thanks to a profligate and talented contributor. Your reputation is still intact.

Bumper sticker:

"Do as the animals do! Let all your children be born — eat the ones you don’t want."

From the Stall of Valhalla

Said the elephant to the man taling a piss on the Serengeti Plain, "How do you breathe through that thing?"

CLASSIFIEDS

HELP WANTED

NEED CHRISTMAS CASH? Help graduate student author mail queries to potential publishers during Dec. or vacation. Must be computer literate & know how to merge documents in Word Perfect for Windows. Laser printer access encouraged. Salary $54.52/week. Call Bill at 785-8205.

FREEL, FURNISHED GARAGE APARTMENT, available after Dec. 1, exchange for rooming house (1 person occupied) once a week and occasionally taking care of cats and plants. Close to Rice 792-5287, day/night.

WORK-STUDY FOR SPRING TERM.

Art & Art History Slide Library needs dedicated work-study student for 4-8 hours per week for Spring semester. Learn about art, catalog and make contact with do’s. Call 813/64 or come by 421 Seabrook before the 4th week of Dec. MARIE.

PARK-TIME JOBS for exchange for a nice furnished, utilities paid, one person apartment, owned three boys, age 3-11, after school from 3 to 8 p.m. Walking distance to Rice. Start early January. Tom Taylor, 522-2046.

PERSON NEEDED TO LIVE in nice River Oaks garage apt. Free rent for approx. 25 hr. of helping-stirring, eating, playing, petting. Perfect for college student or 2 renters. References must be available upon request after 4th week of Dec. 213-6683. CLAUDEL.

CHILD-CARE PROVIDER In our home (Rice area). Take care of 17-month-old male. No experience desired, but not necessary. References supplied. 467-0804.

PERSON NEEDED TO LIVE in nice River Oaks garage apt. Free rent for approx. 25 hr. of helping-stirring, eating, playing, petting. Perfect for college student or 2 renters. References must be available upon request after 4th week of Dec. 213-6683. CLAUDEL.

A 1

• Perry Ellis • Nicole Miller • Chaps •

Bridesmaid Rental from $5921

• Prom Rental from $4921

• From $39- you can rent a tuxedo

• Bridesmaid Rental from $5921

• Prom Rental from $4921

• Perry Ellis • Nicole Miller • Chaps •

Below is the story of someone I know, an elderly gentleman, Sir Blowiman Spewh.

Just speak the man’s name and that’s what he would do.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays he’d do three for two.

He hadn’t employment, but bore a small card that gave “Flutters” at 86, and “Like to work hard.”

His own country’s government, acting on greed, sought tax on his profit to screw him indeed.

When they reached the old fellow he feared they had reached out for they backed over his head such a slight blowman. Semi-marring his comfort set them at ease, especially one who contracted disease.

His guests paid their homage, and speech moved to follow. But a corpse? Speechless it was. Too hard to swallow.

Much thanks to a profligate and talented contributor. Your reputation is still intact.

Bumper sticker:

"Do as the animals do! Let all your children be born — eat the ones you don’t want."

From the Stall of Valhalla

Said the elephant to the man taling a piss on the Serengeti Plain, "How do you breathe through that thing?"