THE SCOTSMAN
EDINBURGH

Nov. 4, 1887

My dear Sir,

Your book came yesterday afternoon. Your note I have got after midnight this morning. I have already plunged into the novel, and I am entranced. I read many novels; for I find them a great relief from the political pressure and the general harass of a newspaper life.

Many thanks for what you say about our Monday's issue. I hope that next Monday will have a special interest for you. I am, my dear Sir,
Faithfully yours
Charles G. Cooper

Yours truly
C. G. Cooper
