

"THE TIMES,"

BLACKBURN.

Sep 13/97

Dear Sir

I enclose you a cutting from last sat's "Blackburn Times" a marked copy of which I am also sending you by this post. We are in the habit of sending these reviews about once a fortnight or so, and I find that they are a very popular feature of the paper. I have taken the liberty of making "The Christian" the subject of the last published of these notices, and I am sending you a copy of it because I want you to understand that there are plenty of journalists in the humbler walks of the profession (who voice the opinions of thousands of people) who are supremely grateful to you for the pleasure & profit they have derived from reading "The Christian" and may another production of your undoubted genius

I have tried in a small way, to show my appreciation of your great work, and I sincerely hope that we may have many another successful novel from your pen

Believe me, sincerely yours,

Gas Roston
